Teaching Translation LAWRENCE VENUTI, 2016-08-05 Over the past half century translation studies has emerged decisively as an academic field around the world and in recent years the number of academic institutions offering instruction in translation has risen along with an increased demand for translators interpreters and translator trainers Teaching Translation is the most comprehensive and theoretically informed overview of current translation teaching Contributions from leading figures in translation studies are preceded by a substantial introduction by Lawrence Venuti in which he presents a view of translation as the ultimate humanistic task an interpretive act that varies the form meaning and effect of the source text 26 incisive chapters are divided into four parts covering certificate and degree programs teaching translation practices studying translation theory history and practice surveys of translation pedagogies and key textbooks The chapters describe long standing programs and courses in the US Canada the UK and Spain and each one presents an exemplary model for teaching that can be replicated or adapted in other institutions Each contributor responds to fundamental questions at the core of any translation course for example how is translation defined What qualifies students for admission to the course What impact does the institutional site have upon the course or pedagogy Teaching Translation will be relevant for all those working and teaching in the areas of translation and translation studies Additional resources for Translation and Interpreting Studies are available on the Routledge Translation Studies Portal

The

Translator- Centered Multidisciplinary Construction Lin Zhu, 2012 This book embraces the epistemological and methodological issues of theoretical construction in the field of Translation Studies from a historical and global perspective. The theoretical stances are explained in detail through a systemic inquiry into the constructive aspects of theoretical innovation of the American translation theorist Douglas Robinson. In order to renew and promote theoretical thinking in the field of Translation Studies, this book aims to reflect on existing theoretical problems in translation, trace the translation theorist's innovative and constructive ways of thinking about translation theory, and explore productive philosophical and theoretical resources of translation studies. This book will not only be helpful to a further and full understanding of Robinson's thoughts on translation but also offers a rethinking of how to advance Translation Studies epistemologically and methodologically.

Crossing Cultural Boundaries in East Asia and Beyond Reiko Maekawa, Darwin Stapleton, Roberta Wollons, 2021-03-01 Crossing Cultural Boundaries in East Asia and Beyond explores the personal complexities and ambiguities and the successes and failures of crossing borders and boundaries. While the focus is on East Asia, it universalizes cultural anxieties with comparative cases in Russia and the United States. The authors primarily engage the individual experiences of border crossing rather than more typically those of political or social groups located at territorial boundaries. Drawing on those individual experiences, this volume presents an array of attempts to negotiate the discomforts of crossing personal borders and attends to the intimate experiences of border crossers whether they are traveling to an unfamiliar cultural location or encountering the other in local settings such as the classroom or the coffee shop.
