V.1 Ludwig van Beethoven, 1961 Beethoven's Letters 1790-1826, Volume 2 (Illustrated) Ludwig van Beethoven, 2017-10-25 Beethoven's correspondences reveal much about his personality inner struggles and love of music This edition appends the musical staves appended by the great composer to his letters The second volume of Beethoven's letters begin with the composer in maturity In these later years several of his most accomplished and beautiful musical works were completed It is clear from these written correspondences that music occupies a greater place in Beethoven's life more frequently he appends samples of and discusses musical phrasing and notation giving readers insight into his methods of composition Although Beethoven concealed his increasing deafness for years it eventually became public knowledge His ability to compose beautiful music was however undiminished and demonstrated in concerts around Europe Thought remarkable by the public Beethoven nevertheless lived in quite modest circumstances but felt deep appreciation for the acclaim with which he was held by various orchestral and philharmonic societies In personal matters Beethoven demonstrates great affection for his nephew Carl whom he had won custody in the courts However the letters also reveal an irascible and controlling side to the composer insistent that his nephew whom he came to view as a son be musically trained the news that Carl's musical talents are negligible is a blow Carl's subsequent intention to pursue a military career strains their relationship further Despite these trials Beethoven had the support of friends until the very end his illness worsening he was able to borrow money to pay for care but it soon became clear he was on his deathbed The great composer's final words comprise a short will in which his estate is bequeathed to Carl Ludwig van Beethoven died the next day as a thunderstorm raged outside his apartment The Letters of Beethoven.
