The Art of Executing Well Nicholas Terpstra, 2008-10-01 In Renaissance Italy a good execution was both public and peaceful at least in the eyes of authorities In a feature unique to Italy the people who prepared a condemned man or woman spiritually and psychologically for execution were not priests or friars but laymen This volume includes some of the songs stories poems and images that they used together with first person accounts and ballads describing particular executions Leading scholars expand on these accounts explaining aspects of the theater psychology and politics of execution The main text is a manual translated in English for the first time on how to comfort a man in his last hours before beheading or hanging It became an influential text used across Renaissance Italy A second lengthy piece gives an eyewitness account of the final hours of two patrician Florentines executed for conspiracy against the Medici in 1512 Shorter pieces include poems written by prisoners on the eve of their execution songs sung by the condemned and their comforters and popular broadsheets reporting on particular executions It is richly illustrated with the small panel paintings that were thrust into prisoners faces to distract them as they made the public journey to the gallows Six interdisciplinary essays explain the contexts and meanings of these writings and of execution rituals generally They explore the relation of execution rituals to late medieval street theater the use of art to comfort the condemned the literature that issued from prisons by the hands of condemned prisoners the theological issues around public executions in the Renaissance the psychological dimensions of the comforting process and some of the social political and historical dimensions of executions and comforting in Renaissance Italy
