Belly Shame Syndicate Thoughts Uncomfortable:

Belly Shame: Stories from the Gut Debra DeAngelo, 2015-12-16 Why are we so ashamed of our bellies We aren't born that way but somewhere along the line most of us get the message that our bellies are unacceptable We have belly shame A group of syndicated columnists and writers were challenged to write about their own experiences with belly shame and body shame From people of normal weight who still felt belly shame to morbidly obese people who dealt not only with belly shame and body shame but also withstood years of verbal and emotional abuse as well as plenty of self-inflicted abuse to one woman who had her apron of fat panniculus surgically removed each story deals with the feelings that come with being ashamed of how our bellies look

The Sentinel Dan Tuttle, 2006-09 PAIN Frank Mercer thought he knew what that was when he woke up on a strange beach more dead than alive His memories had been stripped from him his mind a gaping void of unanswered questions But when the small farming family found him and nursed him back to health so too did his mind begin to heal And then came the nightmares RAGE Something lies just underneath the surface of Frank's mind a darkness possessed of vicious intelligence with a personality of its own Old injuries and the kindness of new friends have thus far held it at bay in particular one small girl with a rare gift and a big heart But when old disputes come back to surface Frank soon finds himself standing between a brutal crime lord and the family he has come to love Caught in the middle of monsters mages and killers he is helpless to prevent the emergence of a far greater evil POWER Frank is regaining more of himself the growing power within him unlike anything the continent of Endath has ever known But even as he faces off against a horde of enemies another foe perches among the recesses of his mind and waits For his body once belonged to another and with each new discovery of lost memories and abilities a little bit more of that other returns
