Fishtail with white plastic handles and tin bolsters. Large button, sabre ground blade and brass liners. Mint value: $250

Fishtail with red swirl plastic handles and tin bolsters. It has a small round button and brass liners. Mint value: $265

Fishtail with white plastic handles tin bolsters. Unusual in that it has a small round button with large hole. I have seen others and believe this to be a transitional knife from 2nd to 3rd generations. Colonial was not one to waste parts and it would seem that they must have used up all of the large-hole handles in stock, though I haven't run into many of these transition knives. This adds interest to the knife and I feel that it adds somewhat to the value as well. It also has brass liners. Mint value: $285
