

Practical No. 2: Write a program to design a form using the components List and Choice.

1. Practical significance

Practical Significance: The List and Choice components let the user choose one option from a list of options. A Choice component is a compact form that requires you to pick a value from the list of available choices. Only one item may be selected from a Choice component. The List component lets you select one or more items from a list of items. A List component may be displayed in such a way that several list items are visible. A List component displays a list of one or more list items.
