* The governor spring for the R200 governor is located under spring 17, Fig. 22 attached to the bottom of the governor housing and the governor shaft.

Revised in 1964 version of manual

The governor spring (17) is an adjustable threaded housing with spring loaded arm. The governor spring is connected into the governor shaft (18). The governor spring is connected to the governor shaft (18) of the engine.

A bumper spring (19), fitted into the adjusting screw (20), used to eliminate surging at high idle. As low idle speeds, a spring (21) of the governor (22) controls the rate of changing the thrust plate bearing away from the governor (23) lever (24), supported by the bumper spring (19), thereby automatically increasing control rate when.

Stop. See. Refer to Fig. 23. The shut-off device consists of the shut-off lever (25), arm (26), spring (27) and governor (28). The shut-off lever (25) is at the rear end of the governor lever (29) support the bearing (30) which slides in a slot of the arm (26) supported on the shaft (31) of the shut-off lever (25). The lever system by which the bearing (30) is driven on point (32), "STOP" lever the control rate (33) is made to the right in the direction of "STOP". There is a flexible connection between the arm (26) and the shut-off lever shaft (31) which yields when the governor lever (29) and governor (28) move away from the governor (23) lever (24), thereby preventing the shut-off lever (25) from being damaged. When the shut-off lever (25) is released, a return spring (34) forces it back into its original position or "STOP" position.
