Roman Military Architecture on the Frontiers Rob Collins, Matt Symonds, Meike Weber, 2015-11-30 The Roman army was one of the most astounding organizations in the ancient world and much of the success of the Roman empire can be attributed to its soldiers Archaeological remains and ancient texts provide detailed testimonies that have allowed scholars to understand and reconstruct the army's organization and activities This interest has traditionally worked in tandem with the study of Roman frontiers Historically the early imperial period and in particular the emergence of the frontiers has been the focus of research During those investigations however the remains of the later Roman army were also frequently encountered if not always understood Recent decades have brought a burgeoning interest in not only the later Roman army but also late antiquity more widely It is the aim of this volume to demonstrate that while scholars grappling with the late Roman army may want for a rich corpus of inscriptions and easily identifiable military installations research is revealing a dynamic less predictable force that was adapting to a changing world in terms of both external threats and its own internal structures The dynamism and ingenuity of the late Roman army provides a breath of fresh air after the suffocating uniformity of its forbears The late Roman army was a vital and influential element in the late antique empire Having evolved through the 3rd century and been formally reorganized under Diocletian and Constantine the limitanei guarded the frontiers while the comitatenses provided mobile armies that were fielded against external enemies and internal threats The transformation of the early imperial army to the late antique army is documented in the rich array of texts from the period supplemented by a perhaps surprisingly rich archaeological record

Official Power and Local Elites in the Roman Provinces Rada Varga, Viorica Rusu-Bolindeț, 2016-11-25 Presenting a new and revealing overview of the ruling classes of the Roman Empire this volume explores aspects of the relations between the official state structures of Rome and local provincial elites The central objective of the volume is to present as complex a picture as possible of the provincial leaderships and their many and varied responses to the official state structures The perspectives from which issues are approached by the contributors are as multiple as the realities of the Roman world from historical and epigraphic studies to research of philological and linguistic interpretations and from architectural analyses to direct interpretations of the material culture While some local potentates took pride in their relationship with Rome and their use of Latin exhibiting their allegiances publicly as well as privately others preferred to keep this display solely for public manifestation These complex and complementary pieces of research provide an in depth image of the power mechanisms within the Roman state The chronological span of the volume is from Rome's Republican conquest of Greece to the changing world of the fourth and fifth centuries AD when a new ecclesiastical elite began to emerge

Ancient Arms Race: Antiquity's Largest Fortresses and Sasanian Military Networks of Northern Iran Eberhard Sauer, Jebrael Nokandeh, Hamid Omrani Rekavandi, 2023-02-16 Which ancient army boasted the largest fortifications and how did the competitive build up of military capabilities shape world history Few realise that imperial Rome had a serious competitor in Late Antiquity Late Roman legionary bases normally no larger than 5ha were dwarfed by Sasanian fortresses often covering 40ha sometimes even 125-175ha The latter did not necessarily house permanent garrisons but sheltered large armies temporarily perhaps numbering 10-50 000 men each Even Roman camps and fortresses of the Early and High Empire did not reach the dimensions of their later Persian counterparts The longest fort lined wall of the late antique world was also Persian Persia built up between the fourth and sixth centuries AD the most massive military infrastructure of any ancient or medieval Near Eastern empire if not the ancient and medieval world Much of the known defensive network was directed against Persia's powerful neighbours in the north rather than the west This may reflect differences in archaeological visibility more than troop numbers Urban garrisons in the Romano Persian frontier zone are much harder to identify than vast geometric compounds in marginal northern lands Recent excavations in Iran have enabled us to precision date two of the largest fortresses of Southwest Asia both larger than any in the Roman world Excavations in a Gorgan Wall fort have shed much new light on frontier life and we have unearthed a massive bridge nearby A sonar survey has traced the terminal of the Tammisheh Wall now submerged under the waters of the Caspian Sea Further work has focused on a vast city and settlements in the hinterland Persia s Imperial Power our previous project had already shed much light on the Great Wall of Gorgan but it was our recent fieldwork that has thrown the sheer magnitude of Sasanian military infrastructure into sharp relief
