

Readings on the Eucharist

The following is drawn from the rite of Holy Communion and Worship of the Eucharist outside Mass and then other liturgical celebrations which have a focus on the Eucharist.

Holy Communion and Worship of the Eucharist outside Mass

From the Introduction to Vol II

Rite of Distributing Holy Communion outside Mass

2. The texts for the Liturgy of the Word may be chosen from the Mass of the day. Alternatively, they may be chosen from the selection provided here, which are those for the Votive Masses of the Holy Eucharist, the Precious Blood and the Sacred Heart. [V-HE, V-PB, V-SH]

3. Even when there are only one or two for communion and a true community celebration is impossible, any of these texts may be used. Alternatively, at the minimum a short passage from scripture is read, which may be chosen from those provided in the Shorter Rite for use with only one or two communicants.

Rite of Eucharistic Exposition and Benediction

4. During the period of exposition there should be prayers, songs and readings to direct the attention of the faithful to the worship of Christ the Lord.

To encourage a prayerful spirit, there should be readings from scripture with a homily or brief exhortations to develop a better understanding of the Eucharistic mystery. It is also desirable for the people to respond to the word of God by singing and to spend some periods of time in religious silence.

The scripture readings provided here will be particularly suitable.

Reading, Desire, and the Eucharist in Early Modern Religious Poetry Ryan Netzley, 2011-01-01 The courtly love tradition had a great influence on the themes of religious poetry just as an absent beloved could be longed for passionately so too could a distant God be the subject of desire But when authors began to perceive God as immanently available did the nature and interpretation of devotional verse change Ryan Netzley argues that early modern religious lyrics presented both desire and reading as free loving activities rather than as endless struggles or dramatic quests Reading Desire and the Eucharist analyzes the work of prominent early modern writers including John Milton Richard Crashaw John Donne and George Herbert whose religious poetry presented parallels between sacramental desire and the act of understanding written texts Netzley finds that by directing devotees to crave spiritual rather than worldly goods these poets questioned ideas not only of what people should desire but also how they should engage in the act of yearning Challenging fundamental assumptions of literary criticism Reading Desire and the Eucharist shows how poetry can encourage love for its own sake rather than in the hopes of salvation book thus forwards a new historical account of eucharistic poetics placing this literary phenomenon within a longstanding negotiation between embodiment and disembodiment in Western religious and cultural history The Eucharist of the Early Christians Willy Rordorf, 1990 We can rediscover ourselves in the faith and hope of the early Christians These ancient first through fourth century writings describe the richness of the Eucharist as it was experienced and lived at that time Included in this volume are excerpts from the Didache Clement of Rome Ignatius of Antioch Justin Clement of Alexandria Tertullian Origen and more all commented on by a leading liturgical historian
