Resources in Education, 2001 Faith, Life, and Learning Online Brant M. Himes, John W. Washatka, 2022-04-08 Faith Life and Learning Online is an invitation for faith based institutions to take bold steps toward integrating a holistic mission of spiritual formation into the online learning environment For Christian higher education faith integration is a matter of mission not modality Regardless of whether learning happens in the traditional classroom through hybrid models or exclusively online Christian universities have a missional mandate to continue their long legacy of forming students of competence and character While traditional campuses continue to provide unique and meaningful opportunities for students to grow in their faith online learning has opened new avenues for engagement and development of spiritual formation As such all Christian higher education institutions are now called to take advantage of this unique technological moment to continue to offer transformative opportunities for the holistic integration of faith life and learning in the online environment

Legislative Establishment Appropriation Bill United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Appropriations, 2012 Bonhoeffer's Seminary Vision Paul R. House, 2015-04-16 Dietrich Bonhoeffer is best known for his role in a plot to assassinate Adolf Hitler and his subsequent execution at the hands of the Nazis However readers are less familiar with his tireless work educating seminary students for a life of pastoral ministry Anchored in a variety of influential lectures personal letters and major works such as The Cost of Discipleship this book attempts to recover a largely unexamined part of Bonhoeffer's life exploring his philosophy and practice of theological education in his original context It then builds on this foundation to address the drift toward increasingly impersonal educational models in our own day affirming the value of personal face to face seminary education for the health of pastors and churches

Making War and

Building Peace Michael W. Doyle, Nicholas Sambanis, 2011-04-22 Making War and Building Peace examines how well United Nations peacekeeping missions work after civil war Statistically analyzing all civil wars since 1945 the book compares peace processes that had UN involvement to those that didn't Michael Doyle and Nicholas Sambanis argue that each mission must be designed to fit the conflict with the right authority and adequate resources UN missions can be effective by supporting new actors committed to the peace building governing institutions and monitoring and policing implementation of peace settlements But the UN is not good at intervening in ongoing wars If the conflict is controlled by spoilers or if the parties are not ready to make peace the UN cannot play an effective enforcement role It can however offer its technical expertise in multidimensional peacekeeping operations that follow enforcement missions undertaken by states or regional organizations such as NATO Finding that UN missions are most effective in the first few years after the end of war and that economic development is the best way to decrease the risk of new fighting in the long run the authors also argue that the UN's role in launching development projects after civil war should be expanded
