Bill Writes Dispatches Correctness Battlefield:

Bill of Writes Lloyd Billingsley, 2015-12-14 Confronting the Jihad of Junkthought Political correctness may be all the rage but as Peggy Lee said about fever it's not a such a new thing It started long ago and Lloyd Billingsley has been writing about it for decades Political correctness he notes in Bill of Writes is a legacy of the Old Left which allowed only one correct view on anything And as the author's Dispatches from the Political Correctness Battlefield demonstrate political correctness is usually at odds with factual correctness Political correctness dead bolts the mind and rigs an alarm system that demonizes any challenge to orthodoxy It also deploys a presumption of guilt not innocence Political correctness divides society into an oppressor class and a victim class and elevates group rights over individual rights Political correctness is thus a form of identity theft and it gets worse Politically correct superstition is now dominant a veritable jihad of junkthought and increasingly deployed by government The author shows how that works and a lot more The selections in Bill of Writes Peter Collier explains in the foreword are all part of an inner conversation aimed at the truth Readers will find a unique trip log of a writer who has been singularly engaged with the issues of his day Dispatches from the World Bill Black, William Richard Black, 2012-10 Percival Phillips was born in 1877 He began writing for newspapers at the age of sixteen with articles about coal miners rioting in Southwestern Pennsylvania At the age of nineteen he began pursuing a dream of being a war correspondent with coverage of the Greco Turkish war and later the war in Cuba He next moved to London England and worked for the Daily Express covering wars in Japan and Russia Tripoli and the Balkans Although an American the British government selected him to be one of five correspondents to cover the British portion of the Western Front during the World War I as well as to cover the troubles in Ireland After the war he was knighted by King George for these services He next moved to the Daily Mail where he continued covering conflicts in Russia China and India as well as problems in Iraq the rise of Mussolini in Italy and Gandhi's activities in India In 1935 he joined the Daily Telegraph and later covered a revolution in Greece and the Italian invasion of Ethiopia His final war was the Spanish Civil War during which he died in 1937

A New History of War Reporting Kevin Williams,2019-12-23 This book takes a fresh look at the history of war reporting to understand how new technology new ways of waging war and new media conditions are changing the role and work of today s war correspondent Focussing on the mechanics of war reporting and the logistical and institutional pressures on correspondents the book further examines the role of war propaganda accreditation and news management in shaping the evolution of the specialism Previously neglected conflicts and correspondents are reclaimed and wars considered as key moments in the history of war reporting such as the Crimean War 1854 56 and the Great War 1914 18 are re evaluated The use of objectivity as the yardstick by which to assess the performance of war correspondents is questioned The emphasis is instead placed on war as a messy business which confronts reporters and photographers with conditions that challenge the norms of professional practice References to the demise of the war correspondent have accompanied the growth of the specialism since the days of William Howard Russell the so called father of war reporting This highlights the fragile nature of this sub genre of journalism and emphasises that continuity as much as change characterises the work of the war correspondent A thematically organised historically rich introduction this book is ideal for students of journalism media and communication
