Bronzes to Bullets ,2008-11-12 This text tells the story of French statues and monuments that were melted down and shipped to Nazi munitions factories during the Second World War Bronzes to Bullets Kirrily Freeman,2009-01-01 Details the process between October 1941 and August 1944 whereby French cities towns and villages lost most of their public bronze statuary Conservative estimates are between 1 527 and 1 750 decorative and commemorative monuments in the public domain were removed and destroyed to foster German munitions factories for Hitler s war machines War memorials and monuments on church property are excluded in this study Bronzes to Bullets ,2008 Defending National Treasures Elizabeth Karlsgodt,2011-04-07 Defending National Treasures explores the fate of art and cultural heritage during the Nazi occupation of France The French cultural patrimony was a crucial locus of power struggles between German and French leaders and among influential figures in each country Karlsgodt examines the preservation policy that the Vichy regime enacted in an assertion of sovereignty over French art museums historic monuments and archeological sites The limits to this sovereignty are apparent from German appropriations of public statues Jewish owned art collections and key Germanic works of art from French museums A final chapter traces the lasting impact of the French wartime reforms on preservation policy In Defending National Treasures Karlsgodt introduces the concept of patrimania to reveal examples of opportunism in art preservation During the war French officials sought to acquire coveted artwork from Jewish collections for the Louvre and other museums in the early postwar years they established a complicated guardianship over unclaimed art recovered from Germany A cautionary tale for our own times Defending National Treasures examines the ethical dimensions of museum acquisitions in the ongoing noble quest to preserve great works of art Breaking the Bronze Ceiling Valentina Rozas-Krause,Andrew M. Gordon,2018-11-15 As German troops entered Paris following their victory in June 1940 the American journalist William L Shirer observed that they carried cameras and behaved as na ve tourists One of the first things Hitler did after his victory was to tour occupied Paris where he was famously photographed in front of the Eiffel Tower Focusing on tourism by German personnel military and civil and French civilians during the war as well as war related memory tourism since War Tourism addresses the fundamental linkages between the two As Bertram M Gordon shows Germans toured occupied France by the thousands in groups organized by their army and guided by suggestions in magazines such as Der Deutsche Wegleiter fr Paris The German Guide for Paris Despite the hardships imposed by war and occupation many French civilians continued to take holidays Facilitated by the Popular Front legislation of 1936 this solidified the practice of workers vacations leading to a postwar surge in tourism After the end of the war the phenomenon of memory tourism transformed sites such as the Maginot Line fortresses The influx of tourists with links either directly or indirectly to the war took hold and continues to play a significant economic role in Normandy and elsewhere As France moved from wartime to a postwar era of reconciliation and European Union memory tourism has held strong and exerts significant influence across the country
