Learning To Talk Malcolm McIntosh, Sandra Waddock, Georg Kell, 2017-09-29 The UN Global Compact complements other corporate citizenship initiatives by promoting dialogue on the relationship between business and society. At the same time it is the only truly global corporate citizenship initiative. It is not an auditable standard; indeed it is not a standard or a code in the way that these are normally viewed. It is a set of principles through which business and the United Nations can work in partnership for global social development. For some businesses it is a simplified codification of their existing policies and management practices but for many engagement represents a challenge and an opportunity to raise their game by aligning profitability with the common good. As the only genuinely global corporate citizenship initiative the Global Compact draws its moral authority from the UN Secretary General and its moral and political legitimacy from the UN as the only global political body. It can be viewed as a series of nested networks involving the Secretary General's Office, the ILO, UNEP, UNHCHR, UNDP and UNIDO, business, NGOs and labour. It can variously be described as an international learning network, as a social network of people and organizations engaged in a global conversation, as a global public policy network and as a multi stakeholder dialogue. It is all of these things but more than anything its greatest success has been in providing a convening platform for a growing global conversation about social development among a variety of actors. However the Global Compact is viewed it is time to reflect on the first tentative steps of an initiative born in the aftermath of the Cold War in the triumph of global economic liberalism and mass demonstrations against globalisation. In its first few years the world has experienced 9/11 and the Iraq War not forgetting the forty or so civil wars that are ongoing at this time. Whatever is written about the UN Global Compact or its success will be tentative. But there can be some serious reflection on its aims and origins, some telling of stories of engagement and discussion on how this initiative has quickly become an important reference point in the dialogue on global and corporate governance.

Empowering Migrant Inclusion Roberta Teresa Di Rosa, Giuseppina Tumminelli,2024-04-01 This book explores key issues on the relational and operational dimension of the professional actions aimed at ensuring the well being and inclusion of migrants in the reception system Starting from the assumption that well being is a multi level phenomenon related to different and complex questions the chapter authors articulated their reflections developing some thematic contents complementary to one another from the perspectives of different social actors involved in the inclusion process A special attention is paid to the risk factors as potential obstacles to the inclusion not only in the achievement of well being but also in the relationship with the receiving society and with the reception system Case studies will be presented to show how this complexity is explored integrating different theoretical perspectives with the participation of all social actors involved in inclusion pathways unaccompanied migrant minors immigrant families refugees social operators voluntary guardians The authors share the social responsibility in investing in human and professional resources in the reception system and in connecting it with the local community Updating the social workers tools and methods become more and more relevant to enable the diffusion of new skills functions and roles in the management of reception of migrant minors and adults
