

Biomes

Everywhere you go, you are in a Biome. Scientists have divided our Earth into different regions named biomes. However, not all scientists agree on the number of biomes and we will focus on the six major biomes which are: Deserts, Grasslands, Deciduous Forests, Tropical Rainforests, Taiga, and the Tundra. Each biome has its own unique climate, plant and animal species. Each Biome has its own distinct community of weather, plants and animals who all adapt to their specific biome. Biomes are like ecological communities classified by both living and non living components. The main factors that determine the biome are latitude, altitude, soil, temperature, precipitation, sunlight, plants and animals.

Resources in Education, 1985 Past Climate Variability through Europe and Africa Richard W. Battarbee, Françoise Gasse, Catherine E. Stickley, 2007-11-06 This book provides a major synthesis of evidence for past climate variability at the regional and continental scale across Europe and Africa It focuses on two complementary time scales the Holocene approximately the last 11 500 years and the last glacial interglacial cycle approximately the last 130 000 years An overview of the climate system of the past has never been attempted before on this scale and as such the volume represents a benchmark for future research It is written by an expert group of climate change scientists and presents an insight into past climate variability that challenges climatologists who seek to explain climate dynamics of the past and provides climate modellers with a work of reference for data model comparison The book is an advanced but very readable text essential for all students and scientists interested in global environmental change
