Ageing Wellbeing Climate Change Arctic:

Ageing, Wellbeing and Climate Change in the Arctic Paivi Naskali, Marjaana Seppänen, Shahnaj Begum, 2015-11-19 The Arctic and its unique natural resources have become objects of increasing concern. Rapid climate change and ageing of the population are transforming the living conditions in the region. This translates into an urgent need for information that will contribute to a better understanding of these issues. Ageing Wellbeing and Climate Change in the Arctic addresses the important intersection of ageing wellbeing and climate change in the Arctic region, making a key interdisciplinary contribution to an area of research on which little has been written and limited sources of information are currently available. The book explores three key areas of discussion: First, various political issues that are currently affecting the Arctic, such as the social categorisation of elderly people. Second, the living conditions of the elderly in relation to Arctic climate change. Third, the wellbeing of elderly people in terms of traditional knowledge and lifestyles. The book also features contributions from a number of key researchers in the field, which examine a broad range of case studies, including the impact of climate change on health in Lapland and elderly people and geographical mobility in Norway. This book will be of great interest to scholars of climate change, gerontology and social policy.

Social Aspects of Aging in Indigenous Communities Jordan Paul Lewis, Tuula Heinonen, 2023 The chapters in this book describe the current situation and changes that affect the health and wellbeing of different Indigenous populations around the world. They also highlight the adaptations and strengths of older people as they find ways to meet current challenges in their lives.

Understanding the Many Faces of Human Security Kamrul Hossain, Anna Petrétei, 2016-07-18 Understanding the Many Faces of Human Security: Perspectives of Northern Indigenous Peoples addresses the different aspects of the human security challenges threatening Northern indigenous peoples. These peoples, whose unique nature-based livelihoods maintain their identity, face difficulties linked to a changing natural and social environment. Their traditional worldviews are challenged as the world they have known for generations is literally melting away. The North experiences numerous pressures linked to rapid modernization, industrialization, demographic pressure and cultural changes. These threats are presented from various angles, such as indigenous understanding of security, governance, sustainability, livelihood practices, mining, nature-based resources and land use management, gender and the elderly. The focus groups of the book are the Ainu, Inuit, Nenets, Sami and the Mongolian indigenous herders.

Polar Shift: The Arctic Sustained Joseph F. C. DiMento, 2022-05-10 Polar Shift addresses how to sustain the Arctic's richness, beauty and local and global value. It describes programs specifically created to protect this region, the great inventory of law, policy and civil society activity targeting sustainability of the region. It presents the Arctic and its present environmental health, very broadly understood, and competing ideas of how it can be maintained or improved, with specific recommendations. This is a book about the Arctic's past and how it was envisioned about its environment, its people and their cultures. Polar Shift describes how the changing of the Arctic matters and to whom. It discusses what is being done to address threats to the Arctic's environment and describes an inventory of tools available to sustain the Arctic and its people New Challenges to Ageing in the Rural North Päivi Naskali, Joan R. Harbison, Shahnaj Begum, 2019-08-26

This book provides an underexplored view of ageing one that conceives older people as valuable resources in their communities as active citizens with both voice and an agency that includes the capacity for resistance It acknowledges that becoming old with dignity means also paying attention to caring good health services and the possibility of good death The book defines age and ageing as multiple culturally and historically constructed phenomena that are only loosely connected to the years of one's life In focusing on the peripheral North located in the Nordic Canadian and Russian north it highlights important questions and viewpoints that can be found and adapted to other rural areas The book answers the following questions What is the relevance of legislation and international legal agreements in ensuring the rights of elderly people under political and economic changes What challenges do geographic isolation changing age structure and cultural and ecological transformations pose to possibilities for meeting older people's needs for engagement in society as well as for their care As such this book will be of interest to all those working in population aging Climate Change and

Anthropos Linda Connor, 2016-02-05 Anthropos in the sense of species as well as cultures and ethics locates humans as part of much larger orders of existence fundamental when thinking about climate change This book offers a new way of exploring the significance of locality and lives in the epoch of the Anthropocene a time when humans confront the limits of our control over nature Many scholars now write about the ethics policies and politics of climate change focussing on global processes and effects The book's innovative approach to cross cultural comparison and a regionally based study explores people's experiences of environmental change and the meaning of climate change for diverse human worlds in a changing biosphere The main study site is the Hunter Valley in southeast Australia an ecological region defined by the Hunter River catchment a dwelling place for many generations of people and a key location for transnational corporations focussed on the mining burning and export of black coal Abundant fossil fuel reserves tie Hunter people and places to the Asia Pacific the engine room of global economic growth in the twenty first century and the largest user of the planet's natural resources The book analyses the nexus of place and perceptions political economy and social organisation in situations where environmental changes are radically transforming collective worlds Based on an anthropological approach informed by other ways of thinking about environment people relationships this book analyses the social and cultural dimensions of climate change holistically Each chapter links the large scales of species and planet with small places commodity chains local actions myths and values as well as the mingled strands of dystopian imaginings and strivings for recuperative renewal in an era of transition Responding to Climate Change in Asian Cities Diane Archer, Sarah Colenbrander, David

Dodman, 2016-11-03 The role of cities in addressing climate change is increasingly recognised in international arenas including the Sustainable Development Goals the UN Framework Convention on Climate Change and the New Urban Agenda

Asia is home to many of the countries that are most vulnerable to climate change impacts and along with Africa will be the site of most urban population growth over the coming decades Bringing together a range of city experiences Responding to Climate Change in Asian Cities provides valuable insights into how cities can overcome some of the barriers to building climate resilience including addressing the needs of vulnerable populations The chapters are centred on an overarching understanding that adaptive urban governance is necessary for climate resilience This requires engaging with different actors to take into account their experiences vulnerabilities and priorities building knowledge including collecting and using appropriate evidence and understanding the institutions shaping interactions between actors from the national to the local level The chapters draw on a mix of research methodologies demonstrating the variety of approaches to understanding and building urban resilience that can be applied in urban settings Bringing together a range of expert contributors this book will be of great interest to scholars of urban studies sustainability and environmental studies development studies and Asian studies

Systemic Crises of Global Climate Change Phoebe Godfrey, Denise Torres, 2016-04-14 Sociological literature tends to view the social categories of race class and gender as distinct and has avoided discussing how multiple intersections inform and contribute to experiences of injustice and inequity This limited focus is clearly inadequate Systemic Crises of Global Climate Change is an edited volume of 49 international interdisciplinary contributions addressing global climate change GCC by intentionally engaging with the issues of race gender and class through an intersectional lens The volume challenges and inspires readers to foster new theoretical and practical linkages and think beyond the traditional and oftentimes reductionist environmental science frame by examining issues within their turbulent political cultural and personal landscapes Varied media and writing styles invite students and educators to reflexively engage different yet complementary approaches to GCC analysis and interpretation mirroring the disparate voices and viewpoints within the field The second volume Emergent Possibilities for Sustainability will take a similar approach but will examine the possibilities for solutions as in the quest for global sustainability This book is a valuable resource for academics researchers and both undergraduate and post graduate students in the areas of Environmental Studies Climate Change Gender Studies and International studies as well as those seeking a more intersectional analysis of GCC

Distance, Equity and Older People's Experiences in the Nordic Periphery Shahnaj Begum, Joan R. Harbison, Päivi Naskali, Minna Zechner, 2023-06-30 This book demonstrates how the largely neglected and multifaceted concept of distance can be used as a primary lens to expand and enrich our understandings of what older people say about their lives needs and wishes in diverse surroundings in the Northern periphery and beyond It asks how physical social and emotional distances shape older people's everyday lives and practices Contributions from leading experts provides interdisciplinary investigations into the experiences and stories of older people in the Northern periphery These insights demonstrate the utility of the concept distance when reflecting on the central aspects of contemporary ageing societies The book explores key themes such as care age politics technology intergenerational relations and migration providing perspectives that are applicable across a variety of international geographical contexts This innovative book offers a valuable theoretical and methodological contribution with critical new perspectives on ageing in relation to distances It will be of interest to students and scholars interested in sociology human geography health and social care ageing and gerontological studies gender studies and Arctic studies

Strategies for Rapid Climate Mitigation Laurence Delina, 2016-06-10 To keep the global average temperature from rising further than 2°C emissions must peak soon and then fall steeply This book examines how such rapid mitigation can proceed in the scale and speed required for effective climate action using an analogy provided by the mobilisation for a war that encompassed nations the Second World War Strategies for Rapid Climate Mitigation examines the wartime climate analogy by drawing lessons from wartime mobilisations to develop contingency plans for a scenario where governments implement stringent mitigation programs as an insurance policy where we pay for future benefits Readers are provided a picture of how these programs could look how they would work what could trigger them and the challenges in execution The book analyses in detail one plausible approach to a crucial issue an approach built upon knowledge of climate science and on proven and demonstrated mitigation measures The book is meshed with a social and political analysis that draws upon narratives of mobilisations during the war to meet a transnational threat while also addressing the shortcomings of the analogy and its strategies The book will be of great interest to scholars students and practitioners of public policy climate policy energy policy international relations and strategic studies
