Art and Fear David Bayles, Ted Orland, 2001-04 Written by artists for artists this survival guide explores the way art gets made the reason it often doesn't get made and the nature of the difficulties that cause so many artists to give up along the way Art and Fear David Bayles, Ted Orland, 1994-01-01 Art & Fear David Bayles, Ted Orland, 2001-04-01 This is a book about making art Ordinary art Ordinary art means something like all art not made by Mozart After all art is rarely made by Mozart like people essentially statistically speaking there aren't any people like that Geniuses get made once a century or so yet good art gets made all the time so to equate the making of art with the workings of genius removes this intimately human activity to a strangely unreachable and unknowable place For all practical purposes making art can be examined in great detail without ever getting entangled in the very remote problems of genius from the Introduction Art Fear explores the way art gets made the reasons it often doesn't get made and the nature of the difficulties that cause so many artists to give up along the way The book's co authors David Bayles and Ted Orland are themselves both working artists grappling daily with the problems of making art in the real world Their insights and observations drawn from personal experience provide an incisive view into the world of art as it is experienced by artmakers themselves This is not your typical self help book This is a book written by artists for artists it's about what it feels like when artists sit down at their easel or keyboard in their studio or performance space trying to do the work they need to do First published in 1994 Art Fear quickly became an underground classic Word of mouth response alone now enhanced by internet posting has placed it among the best selling books on artmaking and creativity nationally Art Fear has attracted a remarkably diverse audience ranging from beginning to accomplished artists in every medium and including an exceptional concentration among students and teachers The original

Capra Press edition of Art Fear sold 80 000 copies An excerpt Today more than it was however many years ago art is hard because you have to keep after it so consistently On so many different fronts For so little external reward Artists become veteran artists only by making peace not just with themselves but with a huge range of issues You have to find your work

Followership in Action Melissa K. Carsten, Rob Koonce, Michelle C. Bligh, Marc Hurwitz, 2016-03-07 As the study of followership further escalates into the global mainstream of leadership studies this book proactively engages future leaders and followers in issues that they are likely to face in various everyday human resource development management and leadership contexts

Unfolding the Cards Ian Damerell, 2015-03-03 These essays attempt to confront the effect of years of postmodernity and its promotion of individuality at the cost of solidarity and communal spirit In the wake of this it suggests possible frameworks for an art study that restores a certain focus on communal spirit It proposes too that art study's fragile position in contemporary society is a consequence of over commercialisation and its resultant surface values Consumerist and corporate ideology encourage the consumer individual's self realisation seemingly divorced from communal interests Within this isolation lies the potential breakdown of ethics Therefore I dream of a kinder society i.e. one where we are engaged in realising the community as its citizens This is not blind obedience but in a spirit of contributing to a whole society More specifically it means allowing and to a degree maintaining art study as a sphere of possibilities for budding citizen artists It is envisaging art study as a discursive arena and creating an academic space that allows for art's main contribution the dislodging of the so called proper i.e. entrenched doctrine I believe that art study can contribute to the improving of society in the main because art enacts a different sharing of the sensible
