

Colour

Colour is often one of the most exciting components of a painting, but what exactly is it? Understanding the basic principles of colour theory helps you analyse how artists exploit and manipulate it to their work. They use colour together with composition, perspective, and light and shade to strengthen the impact of the subject matter.

Mixing and comparing colours

The perception of light makes colours visible. Light travels in waves of different lengths, and the same level of transparency of different wavelengths gives different colours. The range of wavelengths perceived can be called the visible spectrum – the shortest visible wavelength is violet, and the longest is red. Artists can gain insight from scientific principles that describe some wavelengths and effect others. Use of colour in a technical work, the colour in a painting for example, the colour of architecture.

The colour wheel
