Literature and Geography Emmanuelle Peraldo, 2016-01-14 In a period marked by the Spatial Turn time is not the main category of analysis any longer Space is It is now considered as a central metaphor and topos in literature and literary criticism has seized space as a new tool Similarly literature turns out to be an ideal field for geography This book examines the cross fertilization of geography and literature as disciplines languages and methodologies In the past two decades several methods of analysis focusing on the relationship and interconnectedness between literature and geography have flourished Literary cartography literary geography and geocriticism Westphal 2007 and Tally 2011 have their specificities but they all agree upon the omnipresence of space place and mapping at the core of analysis Other approaches like ecocriticism Buell 2001 and Garrard 2004 geopoetics White 1994 geography of literature Moretti 2000 studies of the inserted map Ljunberg 2012 and Pristnall and Cooper 2011 and narrative cartography have likewise drawn attention to space Literature and Geography The Writing of Space Throughout History following an international conference in Lyon bringing together literary academics geographers cartographers and architects in order to discuss literature and geography as two practices of space shows that literature along with geography is perfectly valid to account for space Suggestions are offered here from all disciplines on how to take into account representations and discourses since texts including literary ones have become increasingly present in the analysis of geographers

Pref Forces of Nature Barry A. Vann, 2012-03-20 As long as the human species has existed men and women have had to contend with the unpredictable forces of nature Geographer Barry A Vann brings a unique perspective to this age old struggle in this illuminating overview of human population shifts and their precarious relationship with climate change and geography Vann takes us on a journey along the migration routes of the earliest modern humans and tells why our ancestors chose to settle down in places that can be best described as natural utopias In the religiously oriented worldview of ancient peoples such places took on a sacred aura of divine favor Similarly destructive events such as volcanic eruptions and earthquakes were interpreted as expressions of divine wrath Vann shows how the ancient texts of the Bible and the Qur'an offer glimpses of past climates that were distinctly different from the climate of our time He also discusses the rise of technology as a means of controlling the threatening features of the natural world Though technology has enabled humanity to cope with hostile climates it has also created a false sense of security Vann notes that population clusters are increasing in dangerous areas and that no technology can protect vulnerable groups from major category hurricanes tornadoes or earthquakes Finally he considers our current anxieties regarding global warming pointing out that this focus has obscured a good deal of historical and geological evidence for a return of another ice age The Forces of Nature offers a challenging perspective on the precarious balance between fragile human communities and their often threatening environments

Puritan Islam Barry A. Vann, 2011-09-27 In this unique analysis of Muslim population shifts in the Western world geographer Barry A Vann provides fresh insights into the theological factors that play into these demographic trends Vann examines the imagined geographies of Muslims with a puritan orientation People with this mind set are little inclined to accept a pluralistic multicultural live and let live concept of society And conflicts between conflicting value systems are almost inevitable Vann notes that this purist approach to Islam is certainly not universal among Muslims and there are many varying interpretations that are more moderate in outlook Nonetheless the undeniable theological background of all Muslim communities colors their values and attitudes and must be taken into consideration when attempting to understand the potential conflicts between contiguous Muslim and non Muslim groups Given the fact that the population of Muslim immigrants is growing in traditionally Christian and increasingly secular countries of the Western world while the resident populations are either stagnant or declining Vann's insightful analysis of the ways in which Islam influences perceptions of community and geography is of great relevance
