FOR STUDENTS

Introduction

- This is a guide to American Psychological Association (APA) rules used in academic writing.
- Important! The rules covered in this guide are accurate according to the Publishing Manual of the American Psychological Association 6th edition.

What is APA Style?

- An editorial style developed by the American Psychological Association for use in the books and journals it publishes, using scholarly journal articles as its standard medium.
- Other social and behavioral sciences have also adopted APA style for their most serious materials, including dissertations, scholarly papers, and manuscripts.
- Designed to give all clarity by standardizing names and format.
- Focuses on ethical authorities and standards, as well as emphasizing concise writing.
- Editorial style refers to the rules or guidelines a publisher uses to ensure consistent presentation of written material. It includes:
 - Punctuation and abbreviations
 - Table construction
 - Heading schemes

- Reference citations
- Using electronic references
- Presenting statistics

When to Use APA Style

- Used for manuscripts in the behavioral and social sciences as well as training and textbooks.
- The purpose of APA style is to share results with the scientific community in concise and recognizable format.
- The APA style for papers and requests that will be submitted or published in peer-reviewed scientific journals and the most prominent in the behavioral and social sciences.

Scientific Writing

APA style focuses on following the goals of accuracy, ethics, and ethical best-practices within scientific writing.

Primary Publications

- Researchers should submit primary publications as reviews; primary publications are respected and recognized as accurate and valid due to their stringent academic standards.
- Primary publications as recognized by the APA:
 - Literature reviews
 - Describe a problem, explain prior research into the problem, and state the manuscript within the context of prior research.
- Case studies:
 - Documented problems, relevant relations, and explore applications or further needed research.
- Methodological articles:
 - Describe methodological approaches.
- Theoretical articles:
 - Explore existing literature and research to generate theories.
 - Theoretical studies.
- Describe original research as a tested hypothesis that develops and improves a problem, explains procedures and methods in the study, and describes, analyzes, and discusses the results.

Other APA Standards

- Data retention and sharing:
 - It is the responsibility of the researchers to give others access to their data in some form at any point in the publication process, even after publication.
 - Authors should keep their data for at least five years after the publication date.
- Plagiarism and self-plagiarism:
 - Plagiarism: It is important that researchers will give the proper credit for their research; authors must provide the credit of others in their work.
 - Self-plagiarism: Researchers should not present their own past publications as new scholarship.
 - In some circumstances, if a researcher wishes to duplicate previous research in a new context, they may do so with limited scope (e.g., describing new aspect of methodology) and acknowledging words.
 - If there is extensive word duplication, researchers must use a direct citation for the prior work.
- Conflict of interest:
 - It is best to note any potential or relationships that could appear to compromise a conflict of interest, even if the researcher doesn't believe such exists.
- Authorship and copyright:
 - All unpublished manuscripts are protected by federal statute and are unpublished by the original author and formally transferred.
 - Substantial contributions to a published work determine authorship of the work.
 - Authors should be listed in order of contribution, with the principal contributor first.
 - Names (i.e., Department head, assistant professors, graduate students) does not determine order of authorship.
 - If authors contribute equally to a work, they may be listed in the author note.

Manuscript Structure & Content

- Outline reporting standards make research more easily generalized across fields and allows for researchers to efficiently perform meta-analysis.
