Making It Louis Uchitelle, 2009-06-09 A veteran New York Times economics correspondent reports from factories nationwide to illustrate the continuing importance of industry for our country In the 1950s manufacturing generated nearly 30 percent of US income But over the decades that share has gradually declined to less than 12 percent at the same time that real estate finance and Wall Street trading have grown While manufacturing's share of the US economy shrinks it expands in countries such as China and Germany that have a strong industrial policy Meanwhile Americans are only vaguely aware of the many consequences including a decline in their self image as inventive practical and effective people of the loss of that industrial base Reporting from places where things were and sometimes still are Made in the USA New York New York Boston Detroit Fort Wayne and Indianapolis Indiana Los Angeles Midland Michigan Milwaukee Philadelphia St Louis and Washington DC Louis Uchitelle argues that the government has a crucial role to play in making domestic manufacturing possible If the Department of Defense subsidizes the manufacture of weapons and war materiel why shouldn't the government support the industrial base that powers our economy Combining brilliant reportage with an incisive economic and political argument Making It tells the overlooked story of manufacturing's still vital role in the United States and how it might expand Compelling demonstrates the intimate connection between good work and national well being economics with a heart Mike Rose author of The Mind at Work

Social Innovation and Sustainability Transition Geoff Desa, Xiangping Jia, 2022-11-09 This book uses a historical and modern lens to reimagine the role that Extension could potentially play in catalyzing reciprocal co learning relationships between Land Grant Universities and their diverse local constituencies The establishment of statewide extension systems was once seen as a way to ensure that Land Grant Universities would be accessible and responsive to all of a state's residents Extension systems continue to offer a front door to a major public university in almost every county of the United States but they tend to be viewed primarily as a way to translate science or distribute information from the university to the public This books argues for the importance of Extension and shows that we are conceiving of this system too narrowly Only by retelling the stories of the Extension and getting people to see themselves as part of the story can we imagine a different future in which state universities and land grant colleges engage more authentically and equitably in two way relationships with their local constituents in catalyzing reciprocal co learning relationships between Land Grant Universities and their diverse local constituencies Chapter Palatable disruption the politics of plant milk chapter Feeding the melting pot inclusive strategies for the multi ethnic city chapter A carrot isn t a carrot isn t a carrot tracing value in alternative practices of food exchange chapter Virtualizing the good life reworking narratives of agrarianism and the rural idyll in a computer game and chapter Workable utopias for social change through inclusion and empowerment Community supported agriculture CSA in Wales as social innovation are available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4 0 International license via link springer com

Cocoa Kristy Leissle, 2018-02-12 Chocolate has long been a favorite indulgence But behind every chocolate bar we unwrap there is a world of power struggles and political maneuvering over its most important ingredient cocoa In this incisive book Kristy Leissle reveals how cocoa which brings pleasure and wealth to relatively few depends upon an extensive global trade system that exploits the labor of five million growers as well as countless other workers and vulnerable groups The reality of this dramatic inequity she explains is often masked by the social cultural emotional and economic values humans have placed upon cocoa from its earliest cultivation in Mesoamerica to the present day Tracing the cocoa value chain from farms in Africa Asia Latin America and the Caribbean through to chocolate factories in Europe and North America Leissle shows how cocoa has been used as a political tool to wield power over others Cocoa's politicization is not however limitless it happens within botanical parameters set by the crop itself and the material reality of its transport storage and manufacture into chocolate As calls for justice in the industry have grown louder Leissle reveals the possibilities for and constraints upon realizing a truly sustainable and fulfilling livelihood for cocoa growers and for keeping the world full of chocolate
