how biometrics are developed put to use and negotiated in key European border sites It analyses the disparate ways in which the technologies are applied perceived and experienced by border control agents and others managing the cross border flow of people by scientists and developers engaged in making the technologies and by migrants and non government organizations attempting to manoeuvre in the complicated and often unpredictable systems of technological control Biometric technologies are promoted by national and supranational authorities and industry as scientifically exact and neutral methods of identification and verification and as an infallible solution to security threats The ethnographic case studies in this volume demonstrate however that the technologies are in fact characterized by considerable ambiguity and uncertainty and subject to substantial subjective interpretation translation and brokering with different implications for migrants border guards researchers and other actors engaged in the border world

Christian Living ,1978 Managing Chronicity in Unequal States Laura Montesi,Melania Calestani,2021-11-22 By portraying the circumstances of people living with chronic conditions in radically different contexts from Alzheimer s patients in the UK to homeless people with psychiatric disorders in India Managing Chronicity in Unequal States offers glimpses of what dealing with medically complex conditions in stratified societies means While in some places the state regulates and intrudes on the most intimate aspects of chronic living in others it is utterly and criminally absent Either way it is a present absent actor that deeply conditions people s opportunities and strategies of care This book explores how individuals groups and communities navigate uncertain and unequal healthcare systems in which inherent moral judgements on human worth have long lasting effects on people s wellbeing This is key reading for anyone wishing to deconstruct the issues at stake when analysing how care and chronicity are entangled with multiple institutional economic and other circumstantial factors How people access the available informal and formal resources as well as how they react to official diagnoses and decisions are important facets of the management of chronicity In the arena of care people with chronic conditions find themselves negotiating restrictions and handling issues of power and inter dependency in relationships of inequality and proximity This is particularly relevant in current times when care has given in to the lure of the market and the possibility of living a long and fulfilling life has been drastically reduced transformed into a reward for the few who have been deemed worthy of it
