Ancient Irrigation Systems of the Aral Sea Area Boris V. Andrianov, 2013-12-31 Ancient Irrigation Systems in the Aral Sea Area is the English translation of Boris Vasilevich Andrianov's work Drevnie orositelnye sistemy priaralya concerning the study of ancient irrigation systems and the settlement pattern in the historical region of Khorezm south of the Aral Sea Uzbekistan This work holds a special place within the Soviet archaeological school because of the results obtained through a multidisciplinary approach combining aerial survey and fieldwork surveys and excavations This translation has been enriched by the addition of introductions written by several eminent scholars from the region regarding the importance of the Khorezm Archaeological Ethnographic Expedition and the figure of Boris V Andrianov and his landmark study almost 50 years after the original publication

Ancient Irrigation Systems of the Aral Sea Area Boris Vasil'evič Andrianov, 2013 Irrigation in Early States Stephanie Rost, 2022-06-30 Irrigation has long been of interest in the study of the past Many early civilizations were located in river valleys and irrigation was of great economic importance for many early states because of the key role it played in producing an agricultural surplus which was the main source of wealth and the basis of political power for the elites who controlled it Agricultural surplus was also necessary to maintain the very features of statehood such as urbanism full time labor specialization state institutions and status hierarchy Yet the presence of large scale or complex irrigation systems does not necessarily mean that they were under centralized control While some early states organized the construction operation and maintenance of irrigation works and resolved conflicts related to water distribution other early governments left most of the management to local farmers and controlled only the surplus The cross cultural studies in this volume reexamine the role of irrigation in early states Ranging geographically from South America and the southwestern United States to North Africa the Middle East and Asia they describe the physical attributes and environments of early irrigation systems various methods for empirical investigation of ancient irrigation and irrigation's economic sociopolitical and cosmological dimensions Through their interdisciplinary perspectives the authors all experts in the field of irrigation studies advance both methodological and theoretical approaches to understanding irrigation in early civilizations

The Restoration of the Ancient Irrigation Works on the Tigris, Or, The Re-creation of Chaldea Sir William Willcocks, 1903 The Restoration of the Ancient Irrigation Works on the Tigris, Or, the Re-Creation of Chaldea Sir William Willcocks, 2013-09 This historic book may have numerous typos and missing text Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher Not indexed Not illustrated 1903 edition Excerpt EGYPT FIFTY YEARS HENCE THE Garden of the Lord was the epithet applied to Egypt by Eastern writers over four thousand years ago Vidi viridem Egyptum was the observation of the Roman traveller of two thousand years ago Green inexpressibly green is the vale known as the land of Egypt was the observation of the English traveller of fifty years ago What will the Nile Valley appear like to the traveller of fifty years hence Green it will surely be but it will be no longer a beacon pointing to the permanent prosperity which the irrigation systems of the ancient world could confer on a country It will be a beacon showing what modern irrigation and modern science can do to develop agricultural wealth The giant works in progress and in contemplation will have put their impress on the country with no light hand His Highness Abbas Hilmy counselled by Lord Cromer a guide as sage and as reliable as ever advised Pharaoh or Khalif is carrying out works which will have taken us far beyond the great days of the Pharaohs of the 12th Dynasty the Amenemhats and the Usartesens whose works have left an impression on Egypt which has survived the revolutions and the catastrophes of four thousand years The modern Egypt which we see to day whose foundation stone was laid by His Highness predecessor the great Mohamed All counselled and advised by the eminent Frenchmen whom he delighted to honour will in all human probability be completed to its very summit by His Highness Abbas Hilmy himself who will see Egypt attain a height of splendour and magnificence which no predecessor of his ever saw no not Ramses nor Thotmes Before proceeding to the description of the country as I think it will be fifty years hence it may be well to sound How Do Irrigation Systems Work? Charles Hofer, 2016-07-15 An irrigation system is an arrangement of canals and conduits that bring water to crops that need it Even the earliest civilizations found ways to irrigate their crops with water from nearby rivers In time simple canals gave way to more advanced technology leading to today s massive irrigation systems In this book readers will explore essential STEM topics while learning the fascinating history behind irrigation systems including their different parts how they are used and the amazing engineers and scientists who make them possible The text was designed to reflect social studies and science curricula Photographs diagrams and fact boxes are sure to capture the attention of even reluctant readers Irrigation Systems of the Tigris and Euphrates Valleys in Ancient and Modern Times Stanley S. Butler, 1959 Canal Irrigation in Prehistoric Mexico William E. Doolittle, 2011-03-23 Prehistoric farmers in Mexico invented irrigation developed it into a science and used it widely Indeed many of the canal systems still in use in Mexico today were originally begun well before the discovery of the New World In this comprehensive study William E Doolittle synthesizes and extensively analyzes all that is currently known about the development and use of irrigation technology in prehistoric Mexico from about 1200 B C until the Spanish conquest in the sixteenth century A D Unlike authors of previous studies who have focused on the political economic and social implications of irrigation Doolittle considers it in a developmental context He examines virtually all the known systems from small canals that diverted runoff from ephemeral mountain streams to elaborate networks that involved numerous large canals to irrigate broad valley floors with water from perennial rivers Throughout the discussion he gives special emphasis to the technological elaborations that distinguish each system from its predecessors He also traces the spread of canal technology into and through different ecological settings This research substantially clarifies the relationship between irrigation technology in Mexico and the American Southwest and argues persuasively that much of the technology that has been attributed to the Spaniards was actually developed in Mexico by indigenous people These findings will be important not only for archaeologists working in this area but also for geographers historians and engineers interested in agriculture technology and arid lands The Ancient Irrigation Systems J. D. Atkinson,N. D. B. Taylor,1949 The Ancient Irrigation Systems. Report on a Survey of Information Sources in London, Carried Out in 1948 by Mr. J. D. Atkinson and Capt. N. D. B. Taylor ... With Suggestions for Further Study. [With a Bibliography and Maps.]. British School of Archaeology in Iraq,John Dekeyne ATKINSON (and TAYLOR (Neville Duncan Burleigh)),Neville Duncan Burleigh TAYLOR,1949
