1. Elements cannot undergo decomposition reactions because elements have nothing to decompose into.
2. a. This equation represents a synthesis reaction because 2 elements come together to produce 1 compound.
b. This equation represents a formation reaction because 2 elements come together to produce 1 compound.
3. None of these
4. None of these
5. This equation represents a decomposition reaction because a single compound is breaking down into its elements.
6. The only equation that does not represent a formation reaction is (b). The equation for (b) is a formation equation because it starts with 2 reactants and makes only 1 in the end. Remember, reactions do not have to start with elements in order to be formation equations; we just assume they do when we write them ourselves.
7. The only equation that does not represent a combustion reaction is (b). The equation for (b) is a decomposition equation. Even though it produces  $\text{CO}_2$  and  $\text{H}_2\text{O}$ , it does not have  $\text{O}_2$  as a reactant, so it is not combustion.
8. Complete combustion produces carbon dioxide and water. Incomplete combustion produces carbon monoxide and water or carbon and water.
