Body Shots Early Cinemas Incarnations:

Body Shots Jonathan Auerbach, 2007-10-09 Auerbach places the body at the center of cinema's first decade of emergence and challenges the idea that for early audiences the new medium's fascination rested on visual spectacle for its own sake

Body Shots Jonathan Auerbach, 2007 Body Shots Jonathan Auerbach, 2007-10-09 This original and compelling book places the body at the center of cinema's first decade of emergence and challenges the idea that for early audiences the new medium's fascination rested on visual spectacle for its own sake. Instead, as Jonathan Auerbach argues, it was the human form in motion that most profoundly shaped early cinema. Situating his discussion in a political and historical context, Auerbach begins his analysis with films that reveal striking anxieties and preoccupations about persons on public display, both exceptional figures such as 1896 presidential candidate William McKinley and ordinary people caught by the movie camera in their daily routines. The result is a sharp, unique, and groundbreaking way to consider the turn of the twentieth century American incarnation of cinema itself.

Corporeality in Early Cinema Marina Dahlquist, Doron Galili, Jan Olsson, Valentine Robert, 2018-10-16 Corporeality in Early Cinema inspires a heightened awareness of the ways in which early film culture and screen praxes overall are inherently embodied. Contributors argue that on and offscreen and in affiliated media and technological constellations, the body consists of flesh and nerves and is not just an abstract spectator or statistical audience entity. Audience responses from arousal to disgust, from identification to detachment, offer us a means to understand what spectators have always taken away from their cinematic experience. Through theoretical approaches and case studies, scholars offer a variety of models for stimulating historical research on corporeality and cinema by exploring the matrix of screened bodies, machine-made scaffolding, and their connections to the physical bodies in front of the screen. A

Companion to Early Cinema André Gaudreault, Nicolas Dulac, Santiago Hidalgo, 2012-07-02 A COMPANION TO EARLY CINEMA This collection of essays by early cinema scholars from Europe and North America offers manifold perspectives on early cinema, which perfectly reflect the state of international research. Martin Loiperdinger, Universitaet Trier: A fabulous selection of first-rate articles. Rick Altman, University of Iowa: One of the most challenging books in recent film studies. In it, early cinema is both a historical object and a contemporary presence. As in a great novel, we can retrace the adventures of the past, the film's styles, discourses, and receptions that made cinema the breakthrough reality it was in its first decades. But we can also come to appreciate how much of this reality is still present in our digital world. Francesco Casetti, Yale University: A Companion to Early Cinema is an authoritative reference on the field of early cinema. Its 30 peer-reviewed chapters offer cutting-edge research and original perspectives on the major concerns in early cinema studies and take an ambitious look at ideas and themes that will lead discussions about early cinema into the future. Including work by both established and up-and-coming scholars in early cinema, film theory, and film history, this will be the definitive volume on early cinema history for years to come and a must-have reference for all those working in the field. New Perspectives on

Early Cinema History Mario Sluġan, Daniël Biltereyst, 2022-06-02 In this book editors Mario Sluġan and Daniël Biltereyst present a theoretical reconceptualization of early cinema To do so they highlight the latest methods and tools for analysis and cast new light on the experience of early cinema through the application of these concepts and methods The international host of contributors evaluate examples of early cinema across the globe including The May Irwin Kiss 1896 Un homme de t 1900 The Terrible Turkish Executioner 1904 and Tom Tom the Piper's Son 1905 In doing so they address the periodization of the era emphasizing the recent boon in the availability of primary materials the rise of digital technologies the developments in new cinema history and the persistence of some conceptualizations as key incentives for rethinking early cinema in theoretical and methodological terms They go on to highlight cutting edge approaches to the study of early cinema including the use of the Mediathread Platform the formation of new datasets with the help of digital technologies and exploring the early era in non western cultures Finally the contributors revisit early cinema audiences and exhibition contexts by investigating some of the earliest screenings in Denmark and the US exploring the details of black cinema going in Harlem and examining exhibition practices in Germany

3D and Animated Lenticular Photography Kim Timby, 2015-07-31 Scholars are increasingly investigating photography's broad cultural role expanding our understanding of the diversity of photographic practices Kim Timby contributes to this new history of photography by examining the multifaceted story of images that animate with a flick of the wrist or appear vividly three dimensional without the use of special devices both made possible by the lenticular process Using French case studies this volume broadly weaves 3D and animated lenticular imagery into scientific and popular culture from early cinema and color reproduction to the birth of modern advertising and the market for studio portraits postcards and religious imagery The motivations behind the invention and reinvention of this pervasive form of imagery from the turn of the twentieth century through the end of the pre digital era shed new light on our relationship to photographic realism and on the forceful interplay in photography between technological innovation and the desire to be entertained 3D and Animated Lenticular Photography Between Utopia and Entertainment is a profusely illustrated and engaging interdisciplinary study of a wide ranging body of images that have fascinated viewers for generations

Recreating First Contact Joshua A. Bell, Alison K. Brown, Robert J. Gordon, 2013-11-06 Recreating First Contact explores themes related to the proliferation of adventure travel which emerged during the early twentieth century and that were legitimized by their associations with popular views of anthropology During this period new transport and recording technologies particularly the airplane and automobile and small portable still and motion picture cameras were utilized by a variety of expeditions to document the last untouched places of the globe and bring them home to eager audiences These expeditions were frequently presented as first contact encounters and enchanted popular imagination The various narratives encoded in the articles books films exhibitions and lecture tours that these expeditions generated fed into pre existing stereotypes about racial and technological difference and helped to create them anew in popular culture Through an unpacking of expeditions and their popular wakes the essays 12 chapters a preface introduction and afterward trace the complex but obscured relationships between anthropology adventure travel and the cinematic imagination that the 1920s and 1930s engendered and how their myths have endured The book further explores the effects both positive and negative of such expeditions on the discipline of anthropology itself However in doing so this volume examines these impacts from a variety of national perspectives and thus through these different vantage points creates a more nuanced perspective on how expeditions were at once a global phenomenon but also culturally ordered

Deathwatch C. Scott Combs, 2014-09-23 While cinema is a medium with a unique ability to watch life and write movement it is equally singular in its portrayal of death The first study to unpack American cinema's long history of representing death this book considers movie sequences in which the process of dying becomes an exercise in legibility and exploration for the camera and connects the slow or static process of dying to formal film innovation throughout the twentieth century C Scott Combs analyzes films that stretch from cinema's origins to the end of the twentieth century looking at attractions based cinema narrative films early sound cinema and films using voiceover or images of medical technology Through films such as Thomas Edison's Electrocuting an Elephant 1903 D W Griffith's The Country Doctor 1909 John Ford's How Green Was My Valley 1941 Billy Wilder's Sunset Boulevard 1950 Stanley Kubrick's 2001 A Space Odyssey 1968 and Clint Eastwood's Million Dollar Baby 2004 Combs argues that the end of dying occurs more than once in more than one place Working against the notion that film cannot capture the end of life because it cannot stop moving forward that it cannot induce the photographic fixity of the death instant this book argues that the place of death in cinema is persistently in flux wedged between technological precision and embodied perception Along the way Combs consolidates and reconceptualizes old and new debates in film theory

Politics Goes to the Movies Robert Kolker, 2018-03-14 Politics Goes to the Movies introduces the topic of political representation and ideology by analyzing some of the most important politically themed films across the history of cinema in a refreshing and concise volume Offering a survey of political cinema from 1915 to present day topics include propaganda Communism Fascism revolutionary cinema and contemporary documentary Using individual case studies that begin with The Birth of a Nation and end with O J Made in America the book introduces how various strands of international politics have been woven through the fabric of cinema by contextualizing each film in its particular historical moment In addition Robert Kolker offers formal analyses that explore not only overtly political themes but also how the structural properties of a film can themselves be political how political films are made politically Including films produced across Europe North Africa the US and Latin America this accessible and engaging book is an ideal introductory text for students of political cinema
