Church, Robert J. Hartman, 2019-02-11 Luck permeates our lives and this raises a number of pressing questions What is luck When we attribute luck to people circumstances or events what are we attributing Do we have any obligations to mitigate the harms done to people who are less fortunate And to what extent is deserving praise or blame affected by good or bad luck Although acquiring a true belief by an uneducated guess involves a kind of luck that precludes knowledge does all luck undermine knowledge The academic literature has seen growing interdisciplinary interest in luck and this volume brings together and explains the most important areas of this research It consists of 39 newly commissioned chapters written by an internationally acclaimed team of philosophers and psychologists for a readership of students and researchers Its coverage is divided into six sections I The History of Luck II The Nature of Luck III Moral Luck IV Epistemic Luck V The Psychology of Luck VI Future Research The chapters cover a wide range of topics from the problem of moral luck to anti luck epistemology to the relationship between luck attributions and cognitive biases to meta questions regarding the nature of luck itself to a range of other theoretical and empirical questions By bringing this research together the Handbook serves as both a touchstone for understanding the relevant issues and a first port of call for future research on luck Desert Collapses Stephen Kershnar, 2021-08-18 People consider desert part of our moral world It structures how we think about important areas such as love punishment and work This book argues that no one deserves anything If this is correct then claims that people deserve general and specific things are false At the heart of desert is the notion of moral credit or discredit People deserve good things credit when they are good people or do desirable things These desirable things might be right good or virtuous acts People deserve bad things discredit when they are bad people or do undesirable things On some theories people deserve credit in general terms For instance they deserve a good life On other theories people deserve credit in specific terms For instance they deserve specific incomes jobs punishments relationships or reputations The author s argument against desert rests on three claims There is no adequate theory of what desert is Even if there were an adequate theory of what desert is nothing grounds justifies desert Even if there were an adequate theory of what desert is and something were to ground it there is no plausible account of what people deserve Desert Collapses will be of interest to researchers and advanced students working in ethics and political philosophy
