toxicity Acetaminophen overdose Envenomations Methanol and ethylene glycol ingestion and Toxicologic causes of ketoacidosis Scripting Addiction E. Summerson Carr, 2010-11-03 Scripting Addiction takes readers into the highly ritualized world of mainstream American addiction treatment. It is a world where clinical practitioners evaluate how drug users speak about themselves and their problems and where the ideal of healthy talk is explicitly promoted carefully monitored and identified as the primary sign of therapeutic progress. The book explores the puzzling question why do addiction counselors dedicate themselves to reconciling drug users' relationship to language in order to reconfigure their relationship to drugs. To answer this question anthropologist Summerson Carr traces the charged interactions between counselors, clients, and case managers at Fresh Beginnings, an addiction treatment program for homeless women in the midwestern United States. She shows that shelter, food, and even the custody of children hang in the balance of everyday therapeutic exchanges such as clinical assessments, individual therapy sessions, and self-help meetings. Acutely aware of the high stakes of self-representation, experienced clients analyze and learn to effectively perform prescribed ways of speaking, a mimetic practice they call flipping the script. As a clinical ethnography, Scripting Addiction examines how decades of clinical theorizing about addiction, language, self-knowledge, and sobriety is manifested in interactions between counselors and clients. As an ethnography of the contemporary United States, the book demonstrates the complex cultural roots of the powerful clinical ideas that shape therapeutic transactions and, by extension, administrative routines and institutional dynamics at sites such as Fresh Beginnings.
