A Place To Stand Leaders In Action:

Finding a Place to Stand Edward R Shapiro, 2020-04-29 What stands between us and authoritarianism seems increasingly fragile Democratic practices are under attack by foreign intrusion into elections voter suppression restricts citizen participation Nations are turning to autocratic leaders in the face of rapid social change Democratic values and open society can only be preserved if citizens can discover and claim their voices We access society through our organisations yet the collective voices and irrationalities of these organisations do not currently offer clear pathways for individuals to locate themselves How can we move through the mounting chaos of our social systems through our multiple roles in groups and institutions to find a voice that matters What kind of perspective will allow institutional leaders to facilitate the discovery of active citizenship and support engagement This book draws on psychodynamic systems thinking to offer a new understanding of the journey from being an individual to joining society as a citizen With detailed stories the steps and the conscious and unconscious linkages from being a family member to entering outside groups to taking up and making sense of institutional roles illuminate the process of claiming the citizen role With the help of leaders who recognise and utilise the dynamics of social systems there may be hope for us as citizens to use our institutional experiences to discover a place to stand

Raelin, 2016-01-29 This book develops a new paradigm in the field of leadership studies referred to as the leadership as practice L A P movement Its essence is its conception of leadership as occurring as a practice rather than residing in the traits or behaviours of particular individuals A practice is a coordinative effort among participants who choose through their own rules to achieve a distinctive outcome It also tends to encompass routines as well as problem solving or coping skills often tacit that are shared by a community Accordingly leadership as practice is less about what one person thinks or does and more about what people may accomplish together It is thus concerned with how leadership emerges and unfolds through day to day experience The social and material contingencies impacting the leadership constellation the people who are effecting leadership at any given time do not reside outside of leadership but are very much embedded within it To find leadership then we must look to the practice within which it is occurring The leadership as practice approach resonates with a number of closely related traditions such as collective shared distributed and relational leadership that converge on leadership processes These approaches share a line of inquiry that acknowledges leadership as a social phenomenon The new focus opens up a plethora of research opportunities encouraging the study of social processes beyond influence such as intersubjective agency shared sense making dialogue and co construction of responsibilities Safety Review , 1964
