Art And The Brain Vol 6 Journal Of Consciousness Studies:

Brain and Art Idan Segev, Luis M. Martinez, Robert J. Zatorre, 2014-12-18 Could we understand in biological terms the unique and fantastic capabilities of the human brain to both create and enjoy art In the past decade neuroscience has made a huge leap in developing experimental techniques as well as theoretical frameworks for studying emergent properties following the activity of large neuronal networks These methods including MEG fMRI sophisticated data analysis approaches and behavioral methods are increasingly being used in many labs worldwide with the goal to explore brain mechanisms corresponding to the artistic experience The 37 articles composing this unique Frontiers Research Topic bring together experimental and theoretical research linking state of the art knowledge about the brain with the phenomena of Art It covers a broad scope of topics contributed by world renowned experts in vision audition somato sensation movement and cinema Importantly as we felt that a dialog among artists and scientists is essential and fruitful we invited a few artists to contribute their insights as well as their art Joan Mir said that art is the search for the alphabet of the mind This volume reflects the state of the art search to understand neurobiological alphabet of the Arts We hope that the wide range of articles in this volume will be highly attractive to brain researchers artists and the community at large Art and Science Sian Ede, 2012-11-13 Is science the new art Scientists weave incredible stories invent wild hypotheses and ask difficult questions about the meaning of life They have insights into the workings of our bodies and minds which challenge the myths we make about our identities and selves They create visual images models and scenarios that are gruesome baffling or beguiling They say and do things that are ethically and politically shocking Contemporary scientists frequently talk about beauty and elegance artists hardly ever do While demonstrating how science is affecting the creation and interpretation of contemporary art this book proposes that artistic insights are as important on their own terms as those in science and that we can and should accommodate both forms of knowledge Featuring the work of artists such as Damien Hirst Christine Borland Bill Viola and Helen Chadwick and art science collaborative ventures involving Dorothy Cross Eduardo Kac and Stelarc it looks at the way new scientific explanations for the nature of human consciousness can influence our interpretation of art at the squeamish interventions being produced by artists relishing in new technologies and at art which takes on the dangers facing the fragile environment Seeing the world from the other point of view can inform the practice of both sides this book will provide new insights to artists scientists and the wider public Architecture and Embodiment Harry Francis Mallgrave, 2013-06-26 In recent years we have seen a number of dramatic discoveries within the biological and related sciences Traditional arguments such as nature versus nurture are rapidly disappearing because of the realization that just as we are affecting our environments so too do these altered environments restructure our cognitive abilities and outlooks If the biological and technological breakthroughs are promising benefits such as extended life expectancies these same discoveries also have the potential to improve in significant ways the quality of our built environments This poses a compelling challenge to conventional architectural theory This is the first book to consider these new scientific and humanistic models in architectural terms Constructed as a series of five essays around the themes of beauty culture emotion the experience of architecture and artistic play this book draws upon a broad range of discussions taking place in philosophy psychology biology neuroscience and anthropology and in doing so questions what implications these discussions hold for architectural design Drawing upon a wealth of research Mallgrave argues that we should turn our focus away from the objectification of architecture treating design as the creation of objects and redirect it back to those for whom we design the people inhabiting our built environments

The Architect's Brain Harry Francis Mallgrave, 2011-05-25 The Architect's Brain Neuroscience Creativity and Architecture is the first book to consider the relationship between the neurosciences and architecture offering a compelling and provocative study in the field of architectural theory Explores various moments of architectural thought over the last 500 years as a cognitive manifestation of philosophical psychological and physiological theory Looks at architectural thought through the lens of the remarkable insights of contemporary neuroscience particularly as they have advanced within the last decade Demonstrates the neurological justification for some very timeless architectural ideas from the multisensory nature of the architectural experience to the essential relationship of ambiguity and metaphor to creative thinking

Writing in the Vicinity of Art Tracey Warr, 2023-09-29 Tracey Warr's art texts have been developed as an embedded writer writing with rather than about artists Throughout her various modes of art writing she argues against binaries and focuses on the stream of consciousness the more than human and remoteness Her essays tangle with punk art art and ecology endurance art performance art site specific art and women's art Warr's writing engages with the making processes of contemporary artists including Marina Abramovic Ackroyd and Harvey Tine Bech Brook and Black Bruce Gilchrist Marcus Coates Elpida Hadzi Vasileva London Fieldworks Hayley Newman Optik Alan Smith Emily Speed Christian Thompson James Turrell Urbonas Studio and more

The Mental Life of Modernism Samuel Jay Keyser, 2020-03-03 An argument that Modernism is a cognitive phenomenon rather than a cultural one At the beginning of the twentieth century poetry music and painting all underwent a sea change Poetry abandoned rhyme and meter music ceased to be tonally centered and painting no longer aimed at faithful representation These artistic developments have been attributed to cultural factors ranging from the Industrial Revolution and the technical innovation of photography to Freudian psychoanalysis In this book Samuel Jay Keyser argues that the stylistic innovations of Western modernism reflect not a cultural shift but a cognitive one Behind modernism is the same cognitive phenomenon that led to the scientific revolution of the seventeenth century the brain coming up against its natural limitations Keyser argues that the transformation in poetry music and painting the so called sister arts is the result of the abandonment of a natural aesthetic based on a set of rules shared between artist and audience and that this is virtually the same cognitive shift that occurred when scientists abandoned the mechanical philosophy of the Galilean revolution The cultural explanations for Modernism may still be relevant but they are epiphenomenal rather than causal Artists felt that traditional forms of art had been exhausted and they began to resort to private formats Easter eggs with hidden and often inaccessible meaning Keyser proposes that when artists discarded their natural rule governed aesthetic it marked a cognitive shift general intelligence took over from hardwired proclivity Artists used a different part of the brain to create and audiences were forced to play catch up Algebra, Meaning, and Computation Kokichi Futatsugi, Jean-Pierre Jouannaud, José Meseguer, 2006-06-21 This volume honoring the computer science pioneer Joseph Goguen on his 65th Birthday includes 32 refereed papers by leading researchers in areas spanned by Goguen's work The papers address a variety of topics from meaning meta logic specification and composition behavior and formal languages as well as models deduction and computation by key members of the research community in computer science and other fields connected with Joseph Goguen's work Mapping Frontier Research in the Humanities Claus Emmeche, David Budtz Pedersen, Frederik Stjernfelt, 2016-12-01 Knowledge production in academia today is burgeoning and increasingly interdisciplinary in nature Research within the humanities is no exception it is distributed across a variety of methodic styles of research and increasingly involves interactions with fields outside the narrow confines of the university As a result the notion of liberal arts and humanities within Western universities is undergoing profound transformations In Mapping Frontier Research in the Humanities the contributors explore this transformative process What are the implications both for the modes of research and for the organisation of the humanities and higher education The volume explores the intra and extra academic engagement of humanities researchers their styles of research and exemplifies their interdisciplinary character The humanities are shaping debates about culture and identity but how Has neuroscience changed the humanities What do they tell us about hypes and economic bubbles What is their international agenda Drawing on a number of case studies from the humanities the perceived divide between classical and post academic modes of research can be captured by a republican theory of the humanities Avoiding simple mechanical metrics the contributors suggest a heuristic appreciation of different types of impact and styles of research From this perspective a more composite picture of research on human culture language and history emerges It goes beyond rational agents and situates humanities research in more complex landscapes of collective identities networks and constraints that open for new forms of intellectual leadership in the 21st century The Oxford Handbook of Philosophy of Biology Michael Ruse, 2008-07-10 This handbook covers the history of philosophy of biology then moves on to evolutionary theory It continues with discussions of molecular biology and ecology and covers biology and ethics as well as biology and religion Cultivating the Arts in Education and Therapy Malcolm Ross, 2012-04-27 The constituency for education and therapy in the arts is rapidly expanding beyond the conventional school and clinical settings to include the wider community In Cultivating the Arts in Education and Therapy Malcolm Ross integrates traditional Chinese Five Element Theory also known as The Five Phases of Change with contemporary Western psychological and cultural studies to form a new Syncretic Model of creative artistic practice The Syncretic Model is explored and validated through an analysis of interviews with practising successful artists and in a comprehensive review of the latest neuro scientific research into human consciousness and emotion The book addresses the well documented difficulties experienced by arts teachers and therapists intervening in supporting and evaluating the creative development of individual students and clients This groundbreaking text repositions the arts as central to the effective initiation and management of change in contemporary society Besides being of wide general interest it will have particular relevance for practising and trainee arts teachers arts therapists and community artists With the demand for their services growing and pressure to demonstrate effectiveness mounting the arts community is looking to build bridges between the different arts and between arts education and therapy across national boundaries This book offers a fresh coherent and challenging framework for a revitalized reflective practice from an experienced authority in the field
