Each year, Museum Studies MA students at the UCL Institute of Archaeology enrol on the 'Exhibition Project' course, in which they stage an exhibition using two display cases in the Institute's A.G. Leventis Gallery. This year, the Exhibition Project had an added dimension in that the course-examiners were also our clients and subject matter. Eleven Museum Studies students, only two of whom had an archaeological background, were given the challenge of producing an exhibition on the topic of the 75th anniversary of the Institute of Archaeology. We were provided with £1,000, given a set of deadlines, and then largely left to it. The outcome – the exhibition Breaking Ground: 75 Years of Pioneering Archaeology – is on public display from May 2012 to February 2013 (Fig. 1).

The Exhibition Project gives students a chance to discover what goes on behind the scenes in making an exhibition. López Varela, 2023-07-12 This book tells the story of women in archaeology worldwide and their dedication to advancing knowledge and human understanding In their own voices they present themselves as archaeologists working in academia or the private and public sector across 33 countries The chapters in this volume reconstruct the history of archaeology while honoring those female scholars and their pivotal research who are no longer with us Many scholars in this volume fiercely explore non traditional research areas in archaeology The chapters bear witness to their valuable and unique contributions to reconstructing the past through innovative theoretical and methodological approaches In doing so they share the inherent difficulties of practicing archaeology not only because they too are mothers sisters and wives but also because of the context in which they are writing This volume may interest researchers in archaeology history of science gender studies and feminist theory Chapter 11 is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link springer.com New Perspectives in Seleucid History, Archaeology and Numismatics Roland Oetjen, 2019-12-16 Dedicated to Getzel M.
