Recent Advances in Genetics and Breeding of Major Staple Food Crops Joong Hyoun Chin, B.P. Mallikarjuna Swamy, 2021-08-31 To meet the global food demand of an increasing population food production has to be increased by 60% by 2050 The main production constraints such as climate change biotic stresses abiotic stresses soil nutrition deficiency problems problematic soils etc have to be addressed on an urgent basis More than 50% of human calories are from three major cereals rice wheat and maize The harnessing of genetic diversity by novel allele mining assisted by recent advances in biotechnological and bioinformatics tools will enhance the utilization of the hidden treasures in the gene bank Technological advances in plant breeding will provide some solutions for the biofortification stress resistance yield potential and quality improvement in staple crops The elucidation of the genetic physiological and molecular basis of useful traits and the improvement of the improved donors containing multiple traits are key activities for variety development High throughput genotyping systems assisted by bioinformatics and data science provide efficient and easy tools for geneticists and breeders Recently new breeding techniques applied in some food crops have become game changers in the global food crop market With this background we invited 18 eminent researchers working on food crops from

Plant Genetics and Molecular Breeding

Pedro Martínez-Gómez, 2019-07-11 The development of new plant varieties is a long and tedious process involving the generation of large seedling populations for the selection of the best individuals While the ability of breeders to generate large populations is almost unlimited the selection of these seedlings is the main factor limiting the generation of new cultivars Molecular studies for the development of marker assisted selection MAS strategies are particularly useful when the evaluation of the character is expensive time consuming or with long juvenile periods The papers published in the Special Issue Plant Genetics and Molecular Breeding report highly novel results and testable new models for the integrative analysis of genetic phenotyping and transmission of agronomic characters physiology flowering ripening organ development genomic DNA regions responsible for the different agronomic characters transcriptomic gene expression analysis of the characters proteomic proteins and enzymes involved in the expression of the characters metabolomic secondary metabolites and epigenetic DNA methylation and histone modifications approaches for the development of new MAS strategies These molecular approaches together with an increasingly accurate phenotyping will facilitate the breeding of new climate resilient varieties resistant to abiotic and biotic stress with suitable productivity and quality to extend the adaptation and viability of the current varieties
