Why we have developed this resource

Maths is a key subject in the primary school curriculum. It is a subject that is often taught in a traditional way, with a focus on rote learning and memorisation. This resource is designed to help teachers to move away from this traditional approach and to use a range of assessment strategies to assess their pupils' understanding of maths.

The resource includes 18 practical examples of assessment strategies, including:

- Peer assessment
- Self-assessment
- Portfolio assessment
- Project assessment
- Observation
- Interview
- Written assessment
- Oral assessment

Assessment is at the heart of our learning programme. It is a way of finding out how well we are doing and what we need to improve. It is a way of checking that we have learned what we are supposed to and that we can use what we have learned.

There are many different ways to assess learning. Some are more formal than others. Some are more informal. Some are more direct than others. Some are more indirect. Some are more subjective than others. Some are more objective. Some are more qualitative than others. Some are more quantitative. Some are more formative than others. Some are more summative. Some are more diagnostic. Some are more prognostic. Some are more descriptive. Some are more prescriptive. Some are more evaluative. Some are more formative. Some are more summative.
