Canada's natural environment faces intensifying threats from industrialization in agriculture and resource development, social and cultural complicity in these destructive practices and most recently the negative effects of global climate change. The complex nature of the problems being addressed calls for productive interdisciplinary solutions. In this book, arts and humanities scholars and literary and visual artists tackle these pressing environmental issues in provocative and transformative ways. Their commitment to environmental causes emerges through the fields of environmental history, environmental and ecocriticism, ecofeminism, ecoart, ecopoetry, and environmental journalism. This indispensable and timely resource constitutes a sustained cross-pollinating conversation across the environmental humanities about forms of representation and activism that enable ecological knowledge and ethical action on behalf of Western Canadian environments yet have global reach. Among the developments in the contributors' construction of environmental knowledge are a focus on the power of sentiment in linking people to the fate of nature and the need to decolonize social and environmental relations and assumptions in the West.

Regarding Life Belinda Smaill, 2016-09-21 Contends that the narrative and aesthetic qualities of the documentary genre enable new understandings of animals and animal-human relationships. As indicated by the success of such films as March of the Penguins and Food, Inc., the documentary has become the preeminent format for rendering animals and nature onscreen. In Regarding Life, Belinda Smaill brings together examples from a broad array of moving-image contexts, including wildlife film and television advocacy, documentary, avant-garde nonfiction, and new media, to identify a new documentary terrain in which the representation of animals in the wild and in industrial settings is becoming markedly more complex and increasingly more involved with pivotal ecological debates over species loss, food production, and science. While attending to some of the most discussed documentaries of the last two decades, including Grizzly Man, Food, Inc., Sweetgrass, Our Daily Bread, and Darwin's Nightmare, the book also draws on lesser-known film examples and is one of the first to bring film studies understandings to new media.

such as YouTube The result is a study that melds film studies and animal studies to explore how documentary films render both humans and animals and to what political ends A brilliant cogent and timely look at the intersection of animals the environment food and the people who enjoy and consume them This is the most solid book on film I have read in quite a while and it will be taken up with much enthusiasm by documentary scholars animal rights activists eco warriors and a broad public that is interested in one or another or all of the subjects covered here David Desser author of American Jewish Filmmakers Second Edition
