Big Brands Big Trouble Lessons Learned The Hard Way:

Big Brands Big Trouble Jack Trout, 2002-11-13 One of the most respected marketing gurus in the world shows why some of today's biggest brands are having trouble and how to avoid repeating their mistakes. It wasn't long ago that Levi Strauss, Xerox, Crest, AT&T, Firestone, and Digital Equipment dominated their respective markets. What happened to undermine their standings and those of other superbrands? Are their declines simply the inevitable consequence of change and the birth of new competition? In this important predecessor to the classic Differentiate or Die, the king of positioning Jack Trout answers that question with a resounding No. Writing in his signature straight-from-the-hip style, he reveals the disastrous marketing and strategy blunders that led to the dissolution of the most recognized superbrands. He clearly shows how those mistakes could have been avoided. With the help of in-depth case studies chronicling the events leading up to the falls from grace of Sears, Miller Brewing, Xerox, Crest, Burger King, and other past market leaders, he identifies the ten most common mistakes that big brands make and develops a set of expert guidelines for marketing managers and executives on how to build, protect, manage, and expand their companies' brands and avoid brand-killing blunders. The Talk of the Party Sharon Jarvis, 2005-07-07 How did liberal become a dirty word in American politics? How did compassionate conservative become a viable campaign theme? When did the independent voter become the most sought-after prize in modern campaigns? And why haven't third-party candidates enjoyed similar acclaim? The Talk of the Party listens to how the language of partisanship—including words like Democrat, Republican, party liberal, conservative, and independent—has been used over the past fifty years and how it has created or limited political opportunities. Listening to the talk of the party can teach valuable lessons about campaigns, opportunities for public life, and the future of these American institutions. Big Brands Big Trouble, Brand Failures Matt Haig, 2005

It's not just smaller, lesser-known companies that have launched dud brands. On the contrary, most of the world's global giants have launched new products that have flopped spectacularly and at great cost. Haig organizes these 100 failures into ten types, which include classic failures (e.g., New Coke), idea failures (e.g., RJR), Reynolds smokeless cigarettes, extension failures (e.g., Harley Davidson perfume), culture failures (e.g., Kellogg's in India), and technology failures (e.g., Pets.com). Marketing Champions Roy A. Young, Allen M. Weiss, David W. Stewart, 2006-10-11

Praise for Marketing Champions Much has been written about the importance of using marketing principles and tools effectively. But we've paid far less attention to how marketing works within an organization and how marketers can better interact with other prime movers in their companies. This book really delivers on this much-neglected subject, sounding a wake-up call to marketers everywhere on how to exert their influence and improve their contribution to cash flow. Philip Kotler, S.C. Johnson Distinguished Professor of International Marketing, Kellogg School of Management, Northwestern University. The authors understand that marketing is now the most important force within an organization if you can figure out how to coordinate the rest of your colleagues. This book shows you how. Seth Godin, author of Small Is the New Big. This leadership guide is a must read for every executive who wants to understand the crucial connection between marketing and bottom line results Warren Bennis Distinguished Professor of Business Administration University of Southern California and author of On Becoming a Leader The best marketing leaders are those who can harness the power of the enterprise not just lead the marketing team This book will give you the ability to align and inspire the entire company Jerry Noonan Spencer Stuart

The Persuasion Industries Steven McKeivitt, 2018-08-09 At the end of the twentieth century Britain was a consumer society Commerce intoxicating and addictive had almost entirely colonized modern life People were immersed in and ultimately defined by promotional culture The things they consumed had overtaken class religion geography or occupation as the primary form of self identity and self expression For much of the twentieth century all forms of brand communication from political campaigning to product advertising were based on the theory of rational appeals to rational consumers. There was only one problem with this theory: it was wrong. The Persuasion Industries: The Making of Modern Britain examines developments in marketing, advertising, public relations, and branding. It explores the role they played in the emergence of the consumer society. New ideas from fields of behavioural psychology and economics, together with internal developments such as planning, positioning, and corporate branding, allowed persuasion to become the driving force within many commercial enterprises. Together, these changes led to the emergence of an alternative emotional model of brand communication. A simple idea that proved so compelling it changed the world we live in. Free Gift Inside!! Stephen Brown, 2004-03-05.
