Abstract The authors examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% body weight (BW) resistance training program on the body composition and muscle strength of 10 sedentary, middle-aged men. The men were randomly assigned to either a control or an exercise group. The exercise group performed a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program. The control group did not exercise. The exercise group showed significant increases in muscle strength and body composition. The control group showed no significant changes. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week, 100% BW resistance training program can improve muscle strength and body composition in sedentary, middle-aged men.
