The Sociology of Architecture Paul Jones,2011-07-26 States have long been active in commissioning architecture which affords one way to embed political projects within socially meaningful cultural forms Such state led architecture is often designed not only to house the activities of government but also to reflect political economic shifts and to chime with a variety of internal and external publics as part of wider discourses of belonging From the vantage point of sociology this context necessitates critical engagement with the role of leading architects designs and discourses relative to politicized identity projects Focusing on the mobilization of architecture in periods of social change The Sociology of Architecture uses critical sociological frameworks to assess the distinctive force added to political projects by architects and their work Through engagement with a range of illustrative examples from contested contemporary and historical architectural projects Paul Jones analyses some of the ways in which architects have sought to position their architecture relative to state projects and wider publics A central objective of the book is to situate major architectural projects as a research agenda for sociologists and others interested in the relationship between power culture and collective identities Adopting a critical approach to such questions The Sociology of Architecture frames architecture as a field of contestation over symbolic and material resources which in turn provides an entry point for questioning the inextricably political ways in which collective identities are constructed maintained and mobilized

Modernism and the Mediterranean JanK. Birksted,2017-07-05 Situated in a Mediterranean landscape the Maeght Foundation is a unique Modernist museum product of an extraordinary collaboration between the architect Jos uis Sert and the artists whose work was to be displayed there The architecture garden design and art offer a rare opportunity to see work in settings conceived in active collaboration with the artists themselves By focusing on the relationship between this art foundation and its Arcadian setting including Joan Mir labyrinth George Braque s pool Tal Coat s mosaic wall and Giacometti s terrace Jan K Birksted demonstrates how the building articulates many of the ideas that preoccupied this group of artists during the culminating years of their lives The study pays special attention to the ways in which architecture can shape the experience of time and addresses the Modernist desire for wilderness and its problematic roots in the classical Mediterranean ideal In showing how the design of the Maeght Foundation is a Modernist representation of Mediterranean culture the author has developed an interpretation of architecture that accommodates not only the architect s handling of material or function but shows as well how it can be the embodiment of a particular vision of space and time Resisting Postmodern Architecture Stylianos Giamarelos, 2022-01-10

Since its first appearance in 1981 critical regionalism has enjoyed a celebrated worldwide reception The 1990s increased its pertinence as an architectural theory that defends the cultural identity of a place resisting the homogenising onslaught of globalisation Today its main principles such as acknowledging the climate history materials culture and topography of a specific place are integrated in architects education across the globe But at the same time the richer cross cultural history of critical regionalism has been reduced to schematic juxtapositions of the global with the local Retrieving both the globalising branches and the overlooked cross cultural roots of critical regionalism Resisting Postmodern Architecture resituates critical regionalism within the wider framework of debates around postmodern architecture the diverse contexts from which it emerged and the cultural media complex that conditioned its reception In so doing it explores the intersection of three areas of growing historical and theoretical interest postmodernism critical regionalism and globalisation Based on more than 50 interviews and previously unpublished archival material from six countries the book transgresses existing barriers to integrate sources in other languages into anglophone architectural scholarship In so doing it shows how the periphery was not just a passive recipient but also an active generator of architectural theory and practice Stylianos Giamarelos challenges long held central notions of supposedly international discourses of the recent past and outlines critical regionalism as an unfinished project apposite for the 21st century on the fronts of architectural theory history and historiography
