EFFECTIVE ADVOCACY FOR RURAL HOUSING IN INDIA: A VILLAGE SURVEY IN DADRI TOY, HARYANA Ar. Adedayo Jeremiah Adeyekun ,2019-08-25 This book was written by Adedayo Jeremiah Adeyekun and edited by Prof Prabhubhai K Patel Emeritus Professor of Architecture from Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee Oldest Technical Institution of Asia and Dr Olugbenga S Fashuyi Department of Architecture Federal University of Technology Akure It was written to suggest ways that will improve the welfare and livelihood of the people in the rural areas in India This book is written to assist students in Planning and Architecture on how to carry out a village survey explaining methods and examples of survey It examines the current environmental issues like flooding and re cycle of waste materials the availability of open spaces and pollution related cases The survey in this book will form a framework for planning and the rehabilitation of villages within the Indian circle for the Government of India to approach the problems of the rural dwellers This book is an attempt to identify the challenges encountered in the provision of rural housing and appraise the efforts of the Government of India to address them This book has laid emphasis on the importance of beneficial exploration of resources of human benefits enhancement of resources management for long term productivity and thereby enhancing the quality of life of both residents and visitors The book has revealed the current situation of formal and informal activities including landuse and conflicts general land tenure of the village source of housing finance quality of housing major transportation modes used and their problems as perceived by the rural dwellers Students' Britannica India: Careers ,2000 Public Participation in Planning in India Ashok Kumar,2016-12-14 Mirroring the complexities of cities and neighborhoods this volume makes a conscious departure from consensus oriented public participation to conflict resolving public participation In India planning practice generally involves citizens at different stages of plan making with a clear purpose of securing a consensus aimed at legitimizing the policy content of a development plan This book contests and challenges this consensus oriented view of citizen participation in planning arguing against the assertion that cities can be represented by a single public interest for which consensus is sought by planners and policy makers As such it replaces consensus centered rational planning models with Foucauldian and Lacanian models of planning to show that planning is riddled with a variety of spatial conflicts most of which are resolvable. The book does not downplay differences of class and social and cultural identities of various kinds built on arbitrarily assumed public interest created erroneously by further assuming that the professionally trained planner is unbiased. It moves from theory to practice through case studies which widens and deepens opportunities for public participation as new arenas beyond the processes of preparation of development plans are highlighted. The book also argues that spaces of public participation in planning are shrinking. For example, city development plans promoted under the erstwhile JNNUM programme and several other neoliberal policy regime initiatives have reduced the quality as well as the extent of participatory practices in planning. The end result of this is that legally mandated participatory spaces are being used by powerful interests to pursue the neoliberal agenda. The volume is divided into three main parts. The first part deals with the theory and history of public participation and governance in planning in India and the second presents real life case studies related to planning at a regional level in order to describe and empirically explore some of the theoretical arguments made in the first. The third section provides analyses of selected case studies at a local level. An introduction and conclusions along with insights for the future provide a coherent envelope to the book.
