Supporting the Professional Development of English Language Teachers Melissa K. Smith, Marilyn Lewis, 2017-11-22. Applying the principles of facilitative teaching to mentorship, this book brings together well-established knowledge about mentoring with the experiences and ideas of mentors in the field to advance and support the professional development of language teachers. Recognizing the impact of globalization and technology, Smith and Lewis identify processes and pathways for mentors to develop multi-layered skills for working with teachers in both their own and cross-cultural contexts and in face-to-face and virtual settings. Grounded in theory, this innovative approach is illustrated with authentic experiences and ready to be applied by readers in their specific settings around the world. With an interactive design that encourages participation and practice, each chapter includes vignettes, reflections, and challenging scenarios from mentors in training. Self-reflection and task sections at the end of each chapter engage the reader in combining theory with practice. Sample materials such as mentor-mentee contracts, work plans, journal templates, discussion suggestions, face-to-face or online observation forms, deepen understanding and enable mentors to adapt or create their own materials. This practical and context-adaptable guide is accessible to mentors at any career stage for use in personal professional development or as part of mentor training sessions

The volume effectively offers an overview of the range of phenomena falling in the broad category of conversational humor and convincingly argues for the many different functions humor can fulfill by bypassing simplistic humor theories reducing humor to one function. All the articles draw on empirical material from different countries and cultures comprising conversations among friends and family, talk in workplace situations, humor in educational settings and experimental approaches to humor in interaction. The book is sure to become an important reference and source of inspiration for scholars in the various subfields of humor studies: pragmatics and sociolinguistics.

The Media and Communications Study Skills Student Guide Doug Specht, 2020-11-25 All the tips, ideas and advice given to and requested by MA students in Media and Communications are brought together in an easy-to-use accessible guide to help students study most effectively. Based upon many years of teaching study skills and hundreds of lecture slides and handouts, this introduction covers a range of general and generic skills that the author relates specifically towards media and communications studies. As well as the mechanics of writing and presentations, the book also shows how students can work on and engage with the critical and contemplative elements of their degrees whilst retaining motivation and refining timekeeping skills. Of course, the nuts and bolts of reading, writing, listening, seminars and the dreaded dissertation and essays are covered too. In addition, advice on referencing, citation and academic style is offered for those with concerns over English grammar and expression. Aimed primarily at postgraduate students, there is significant crossover with undergraduate work so this book will also prove of use to upper-level undergraduate readers whether using English as a first or second language.

Routledge Handbook of Arabic Second Language Acquisition Mohammad Alhawary, 2018-05-04 The Routledge Handbook of Arabic Second Language Acquisition introduces major current approaches in Arabic second language acquisition (SLA) research and offers empirical findings on crucial aspects and issues to do with the learning of Arabic as a foreign language and Arabic SLA. It brings together leading academics in the field to synthesize existing research and develops a new framework for analyzing important topics within Arabic SLA. This handbook will be suitable as a reference work for advanced undergraduate and postgraduate students and scholars actively researching in this area and is primarily relevant to sister disciplines within teacher training and Arabic applied linguistics. The themes and findings should, however, also be attractive to other areas of study including theoretical linguistics, psycholinguistics, cognition and cognitive psychology.
