Thus I Lived with Words Annette R. Federico, 2017-11-15 Robert Louis Stevenson 1850-1894 loved more than anything to talk about the craft of writing and the pleasure of reading good books His dedication to the creative impulse manifests itself in the extraordinary amount of work he produced in virtually every literary genre fiction poetry travel writing and essays in a short and peripatetic life His letters especially confess his elation at the richness of words and the companionship of books often projected against ill health and the shadow of his own mortality Stevenson belonged to a newly commercial literary world an era of mass readership marketing and celebrity He had plenty of practical advice for writers who wanted to enter the profession study the best authors aim for simplicity strike a keynote work on your style He also held that a writer should adhere to the truth and utter only what seems sincere to his or her heart and experience of the world Writers have messages to deliver whether the work is a tale of Highland adventure a collection of children's verse or an essay on umbrellas Stevenson believed that an author could do no better than to find the appetite for joy the secret place of delight that is the hidden nucleus of most people's lives His remarks on how to write on style and method and on pleasure and moral purpose contain everything in literature and life that he cared most about adventuring persisting finding out who you are and learning to embrace the romance of destiny

Mindscales Vittorio Lingiardi, 2025-04-01 This book explores the links between the psyche and the landscape on the continuum that runs from our mental world inside to our surrounding world outside Our sense of self is shaped by our environment while it also helps to create the environment we perceive Looking to the fields of psychoanalysis literature art history and neuroaesthetics taking from both Harold Searles and Donald Winnicott from both Emily Dickinson and Rainer Maria Rilke from both Claude Monet and Gustav Klimt from both Semir Zeki and V S Ramachandran author Vittorio Lingiardi urges us to articulate the idea of landscape as a place that we seek all over the world a place that serves as a psychological scaffolding for and a reminder of something that's already inside us It is a discovery but also an invention a return to home Rivers mountains oceans ancient ruins or small towns these places inhabit our minds and our dreams and like psychic objects

they are embedded in our memory and our unconscious This book will appeal to psychoanalysts and therapists of all kinds and to any reader who wants to understand the deep links between ourselves and our landscape in therapy and in everyday life

How Poems Think Reginald Gibbons, 2015-09-23 To write or read a poem is often to think in distinctively poetic ways guided by metaphors sound rhythms associative movement and more Poetry's stance toward language creates a particular intelligence of thought and feeling a compressed articulation that expands inner experience imagining with words what cannot always be imagined without them Through translation poetry has diversified poetic traditions and some of poetry's ways of thinking begin in the ancient world and remain potent even now In How Poems Think Reginald Gibbons presents a rich gallery of poetic inventiveness and continuity drawn from a wide range of poets Sappho Pindar Shakespeare Keats William Carlos Williams Marina Tsvetaeva Gwendolyn Brooks and many others Gibbons explores poetic temperament rhyme metonymy etymology and other elements of poetry as modes of thinking and feeling In celebration and homage Gibbons attunes us to the possibilities of poetic thinking

Romanticism and Modernity Thomas Pfau, Robert Mitchell, 2014-07-16 Though traditionally defined as a relatively brief time period typically the half century of 1780-1830 the Romantic era constitutes a crucial indeed unique transitional phase in what has come to be called modernity for it was during these fifty years that myriad disciplinary aesthetic economic and political changes long in the making accelerated dramatically Due in part to the increased velocity of change though most of modernity's essential master tropes such as secularization instrumental reason individual rights economic self interest emancipation system institution nation empire utopia and life were also subjected to incisive critical and methodological reflection and revaluation The chapters in this collection argue that Romanticism's marked ambivalence and resistance to decisive conceptualization arises precisely from the fact that Romantic authors simultaneously extended the project of European modernity while offering Romantic concepts as means for a sustained critical reflection on that very process Focusing especially on the topics of form both literary and organic secularization and its political correlates utopia and apocalypse and the question of how one narrates the arrival of modernity this collection collectively emphasizes the importance of understanding modernity through the lens of Romanticism rather than simply understanding Romanticism as part of modernity This book was previously published as a special issue of European Romantic Review
