Frame, Johnny L. Matson, 2013-11-21 One of the most important practical problems in child psychology and psychiatry is the differential diagnosis of emotional disorders Until recently the general mode of assessment had been to apply to children the characteristics of psychopathology that were evident in adults In addition there had been few assessment tools available for use with children aside from modified versions of adult instruments Understandably this approach was controversial and dissatisfaction with it led to the more recent knowledge that adult and child problems may be manifested quite differently The third edition of the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders takes these factors into account much more extensively than previous editions Furthermore a great deal of research on methodology in child assessment procedures has emerged recently Yet in spite of these advances practicing clinicians are still frequently at a loss in moving from the characteristics of the disturbed child before them to the final assignment of a psychiatric diagnosis The focus of this book is to outline the various methods of viewing and categorizing the wide range childhood psychopathology with special emphasis on the end product of making a differential diagnosis Our goal was to make this book unique in several ways First we attempted to cover a wider range of disorders than is typical in currently available handbooks Pediatric Rehabilitation Dennis J. Matthews, 2009-09-18 A Doody's Core Title 2012 Thoroughly updated and expanded the new edition of the classic comprehensive reference on pediatric rehabilitation brings together specialists from the various wings of the pediatric rehabilitation community This market leading text covers everything from basic examination and psychological assessment to electrodiagnosis therapeutic exercise orthotics and assistive devices and in depth clinical management of the full range of childhood disabilities and injuries Features include Expanded new edition of Dr Gabriella Molnar's pioneering pediatric rehabilitation text Comprehensive coverage of all areas with up to date information on therapy exercise physiology CAM cancer obesity and joint replacement Clinical emphasis throughout Multi specialty expert authorship Understanding Individual Differences in Language Development Across the School Years J. Bruce Tomblin, Marilyn A. Nippold, 2014-03-26 This volume presents the findings of a large scale study of individual differences in spoken and heard language development during the school years The goal of the study was to investigate the degree to which language abilities at school entry were stable over time and influential in the child's overall success in important aspects of development The methodology was a longitudinal study of over 600 children in the US Midwest during a 10 year period The language skills of these children along with reading academic and psychosocial outcomes were measured There was intentional oversampling of children with poor language ability without being associated with other developmental or sensory disorders Furthermore these children could be sub grouped based on their nonverbal abilities such that one group represents children with specific language impairment SLI and the other group with nonspecific language impairment NLI represents poor language along with depressed nonverbal abilities Throughout the book the authors consider whether these distinctions are supported by evidence obtained in this study and which aspects of development are impacted by poor language ability Data are provided that allow conclusions to be made regarding the level of risk associated with different degrees of poor language and whether this risk should be viewed as lying on a continuum The volume will appeal to researchers and professionals with an interest in children's language development particularly those working with children who have a range of language impairments This includes Speech and Language Pathologists Child Neuropsychologists Clinical Psychologists working in Education as well as Psycholinguists and Developmental Psychologists
