A Pocketful of Holes and Dreams Jeff Pearce,2011 Jeff Pearce grew up in a post war Liverpool slum Life was tough and from the moment Jeff could walk he learned to go door to door begging rags from the rich which he sold in the markets At the age of fourteen he embarked on an extraordinary journey and found himself before the age of thirty a millionaire Then after a cruel twist of fate left him penniless he his wife and children were forced out of their beautiful home With nothing but holes in his pockets Jeff had no alternative but to start all over again Did he still have what it took Could he really get back everything he had lost Christmas and the British: A Modern History Martin Johnes,2016-10-06 The modern Christmas was made by the Victorians and rooted in their belief in commerce family and religion Their rituals and traditions persist to the present day but the festival has also been changed by growing affluence shifting family structures greater expectations of happiness and material comfort technological developments and falling religious belief Christmas became a battleground for arguments over consumerism holiday entitlements social obligations communal behaviour and the influence of church state and media Even in private it encouraged reflection on social change and the march of time Amongst those unhappy at the state of the world or their own lives Christmas could induce much cynicism and even loathing but for a quieter majority it was a happy time a moment of a joy in a sometimes difficult world that made the festival more than just an integral feature of the calendar Christmas was one of British culture s emotional high points Moreover it was also a testimony to the enduring importance of family shared values and a common culture in the UK Martin Johnes shows how Christmas and its traditions have been lived adapted and thought about in Britain since 1914 Christmas and the British is about the festival s social cultural and economic functions and its often forgotten status as both the most unusual and important day of the year
