Arctic Autumn A Journey To Seasons Edge:

Phenomenology of the Winter-City Abraham Akkerman, 2016-01-12 This book explores how the weather and city form impact the mind and how city form and mind interact It builds on Merleau Ponty's contention that mind the human body and the environment are intertwined in a singular composite and on Walter Benjamin's suggestion that mind and city form in mutual interaction through history have set the course of civilization Bringing together the fields of philosophy urbanism geography history and architecture the book shows the association of existentialism with prevalence of mood disorder in Northern Europe at the close of Little Ice Age It explains the implications of city form and traces the role of the myths and allegories of urban design as well as the history of gender projection onto city form It shows how urbanization in Northern Europe provided easier access to shelter yet resulted in sunlight deprivation and yielded increasing incidence of depression and other mental disorder among the European middle class The book uses the examples of Kierkegaard Nietzsche Dostoevsky and Kafka to show how walking through the streets squares and other urban voids became the informal remedy to mood disorder a prominent trait among founders of modern Existentialism It concludes by describing how the connection of anguish and violence is relevant to winter depression in cities in North America in particular Philosophical Urbanism

Abraham Akkerman, 2019-10-16 This book expands on the thought of Walter Benjamin by exploring the notion of modern mind pointing to the mutual and ongoing feedback between mind and city form Since the Neolithic Age volumes and voids have been the founding constituents of built environments as projections of gender as spatial allegories of the masculine and the feminine While these allegories had been largely in balance throughout the early history of the city increasingly during modernity volume has overcome void in city form This volume investigates the pattern of Benjamin's thinking and extends it to the larger psycho cultural and urban contexts of various time periods pointing to environmental progression in the unfolding of modernity Arctic Autumn Pete Dunne, 2011 The third in a four book series on humans relationship to nature
