The Library of Franeker University in Context, 1585-1843 Jacob van Sluis, 2020-06-08 From 1585 to 1843 the Dutch town Franeker housed the University of Franeker. It had its peak in the seventeenth century and attracted students from Protestant countries throughout Europe. A library was founded right from the start and its collection has been preserved almost entirely. Eleven catalogues were printed in the course of its existence and as a result the development of the collection can be examined chronologically. The Library of Franeker University in Context 1585-1843 discusses the relationship with education at Franeker University in detail and makes a comparison with other similar libraries.

Reading the Book of Nature in the Dutch Golden Age, 1575-1715 Eric Jorink, 2010-10-25 Traditionally Dutch scientific culture of the Golden Age is regarded as rational, pragmatic and utilitarian. The role of Christiaan Huygens, Johannes Swammerdam and Antoni van Leeuwenhoek in the so-called Scientific Revolution was recognised long ago, as was the fact that the revolutionary philosophy of René Descartes made its first impact in the Netherlands. This book challenges the traditional picture. First it shows how nature was regarded as a second book of God next to the Bible. For many contemplating, investigating, representing and collecting natural objects was a religious activity. Secondly, this book demonstrates that the deconstruction of the old view of nature was partly caused by the pioneering exegetical research conducted in the Dutch Republic, more specifically the emergence of radical biblical criticism.

Nederlandse bibliotheekgeschiedenis Paul Schneiders, 1997 The Age of Two-Faced Janus Tabitta van Nouhuys, 1998-08-24 This volume deals with the tracts in Latin and vernacular published in the Netherlands on the comets of 1577 and 1618. Central to the book is the question how these cometary appearances influenced the Aristotelian world view. Three introductory chapters on the historiography of cometology and the nature of sixteenth-century Aristotelianism are followed by a detailed examination of the Dutch authors' views on the nature and constitution of the universe. In the final chapter their opinions on cometary prognostication are evaluated and are linked to contemporary political developments. This is the first lengthy examination of the decline of Aristotelian cosmology in the Netherlands. Its demonstration of the connection between cosmological and political views renders the book useful to historians of general Dutch history as well as historians of science.
