Australian Legendary Tales: Folklore of the Noongahburrahs as Told to the Piccaninnies [eBook - NC Digital Library] Katie Langloh Parker, 2010 Australian Legendary Tales: folk-lore of the Noongahburrahs as told to the Piccaninnies K. Langloh Parker, 2023-11-10 In Australian Legendary Tales folk lore of the Noongahburrahs as told to the Piccaninnies K Langloh Parker presents a rich tapestry of Aboriginal legends transcribed with care and reverence Through her meticulous narrative style Parker captures the oral tradition of the Noongahburrah people showcasing a vibrant array of mythical tales that illuminate their cultural worldview The book serves as both a literary artifact and a valuable document of Indigenous Australian heritage reflecting the thematic concerns of nature spirituality and ancestral connections in an era that sought to record and preserve such traditions before they vanished under colonial pressures K Langloh Parker an informed ethnographer and passionate advocate for Aboriginal culture was deeply influenced by her interactions with Indigenous communities in the 19th century Her firsthand experiences and respect for Aboriginal customs facilitated her unique role in documenting these narratives She both cherished and sought to share the rich folklore of the Noongahburrahs which was often overlooked by mainstream literary circles thus providing a platform for Indigenous voices during a turbulent historical moment This compelling collection is recommended for readers interested in folklore anthropology and Australian history Parker s work not only serves as a crucial preservation of Indigenous storytelling but also invites reflection on the broader implications of cultural exchange and adaptation It is essential reading for those wishing to explore the depths of Indigenous wisdom and the storytelling traditions that have shaped the Australian landscape AUSTRALIAN LEGENDARY TALES Various, 2010 This first book by K Langloh Parker is still one of the best available collections of Australian Aboriginal folklore It was written for a popular audience but the stories are retold with integrity and not filtered as was the case with similar books from this period That said the style of this book reflects Victorian sentimentality and an occasional tinge of racism that was apparent in those times However this volume does contain 31 uniquely Australian tales like The Galah and Oolah the Lizard Bahloo the Moon and the Daens The Origin of the Narran Lake Gooloo the Magpie and the Wahroogah and many more tales with distinctly Aboriginal titles The texts with their sentient animals and mythic transformations have a somnambulistic and chaotic narrative that mark them as authentic dreamtime lore The mere fact that she cared to write down these stories places her far ahead of her contemporaries who at the time barely regarded native Australians as human However children will find here the Jungle Book of Australia but there is no Mowgli set apart as a man For man bird and beast are all blended in the Aboriginal psyche All are of one kindred all shade into each other all obey the Bush Law Unlike any European Marchen these stories do not have the dramatic turns of Western folk lore There are no distinctions of wealth and rank no Cinderella nor a Puss in Boots The struggle for food and water is the perpetual theme and no wonder for the narrators dwell in a dry and thirsty land Parker has some odd connections with modern popular culture She was rescued from drowning by an aborigine at an early age This incident was portrayed in the film Picnic at Hanging Rock The song They Call the Wind Mariah was based on a story from this book and the pop singer Mariah Cary was reputedly named after this song 33% of the net profit from this book will be donated to schools charities and special causes Yesterday s Books for Tomorrow s Educations

Australia makes an appeal to the fancy which is all its own When Cortes entered Mexico in the most romantic moment of history it was as if men had found their way to a new planet so strange so long hidden from Europe was all that they beheld Still they found kings nobles peasants palaces temples a great organised society fauna and flora not so very different from what they had left behind in Spain In Australia all was novel and while seeming fresh was inestimably old The vegetation differs from ours the monotonous grey gum trees did not resemble our varied forests but were antique melancholy featureless like their own continent of rare hills infrequent streams and interminable deserts concealing nothing within their wastes yet promising a secret The birds and beasts kangaroo platypus emu are ancient types rough grotesques of Nature sketching as a child draws The natives were a race without a history far more antique than Egypt nearer the beginnings than any other people Their weapons are the most primitive those of the extinct Tasmanians were actually palaeolithic The soil holds no pottery the cave walls no pictures drawn by men more advanced the sea hides no ruined palaces no cities are buried in the plains there is not a trace of inscriptions or of agriculture The burying places contain relics of men perhaps even lower than the existing tribes nothing attests the presence in any age of men more cultivated Perhaps myriads of years have gone by since the Delta or the lands beside Euphrates and Tigris were as blank of human modification as was the whole Australian continent The manners and rites of the natives were far the most archaic of all with which we are acquainted Temples they had none no images of gods no altars of sacrifice scarce any memorials of the dead Their worship at best was offered in hymns to some vague half forgotten deity or First Maker of things a god decrepit from age or all but careless of his children Spirits were known and feared but scarcely defined or described Sympathetic magic and perhaps a little hypnotism were all their science Kings and nations they knew not they were wanderers houseless and homeless Custom was king yet custom was tenacious irresistible and as complex in minute details as the etiquette of Spanish kings or the ritual of the Flamens of Rome The archaic intricacies and taboos of the customs and regulations of marriage might puzzle a mathematician and may when unravelled explain the less complicated prohibitions of a totemism less antique The people themselves in their struggle for existence had developed great ingenuities They had the boomerang and the weet weet but not the bow the throwing stick but not of course the sword the message stick but no hieroglyphs and their art was almost purely decorative in geometrical patterns not representative They deemed themselves akin to all nature and called cousins with rain and smoke with clouds and sky as well as with beasts and trees

They were adroit hunters skilled trackers born sportsmen they now ride well and for savages play cricket fairly But being invaded by the practical emigrant or the careless convict the natives were not studied when in their prime and science began to examine them almost too late We have the works of Sir George Grey the too brief pamphlet of Mr Gideon Lang the more learned labours of Messrs Fison and Howitt and the collections of Mr Brough Smyth The mysteries Bora of the natives the initiatory rites a little of the magic a great deal of the social customs are known to us and we have fragments of the myths But till Mrs Langloh Parker wrote this book we had but few of the stories which Australian natives tell by the camp fire or in the gum tree shade Australia makes an appeal to the fancy which is all its own When Cortes entered Mexico in the most romantic moment of history it was as if men had found their way to a new planet so strange so long hidden from Europe was all that they beheld Still they found kings nobles peasants palaces temples a great organised society fauna and flora not so very different from what they had left behind in Spain In Australia all was novel and while seeming fresh was inestimably old The vegetation differs from ours the monotonous grey gum trees did not resemble our varied forests but were antique melancholy featureless like their own continent of rare hills infrequent streams and interminable deserts concealing nothing within their wastes yet promising a secret The birds and beasts kangaroo platypus emu are ancient types rough grotesques of Nature sketching as a child draws The natives were a race without a history far more antique than Egypt nearer the beginnings than any other people Their weapons are the most primitive those of the extinct Tasmanians were actually palaeolithic The soil holds no pottery the cave walls no pictures drawn by men more advanced the sea hides no ruined palaces no cities are buried in the plains there is not a trace of inscriptions or of agriculture The burying places contain relics of men perhaps even lower than the existing tribes nothing attests the presence in any age of men more cultivated Perhaps myriads of years have gone by since the Delta or the lands beside Euphrates and Tigris were as blank of human modification as was the whole Australian continent The manners and rites of the natives were far the most archaic of all with which we are acquainted Temples they had none no images of gods no altars of sacrifice scarce any memorials of the dead Their worship at best was offered in hymns to some vague half forgotten deity or First Maker of things a god decrepit from age or all but careless of his children Spirits were known and feared but scarcely defined or described Sympathetic magic and perhaps a little hypnotism were all their science Kings and nations they knew not they were wanderers houseless and homeless Custom was king yet custom was tenacious irresistible and as complex in minute details as the etiquette of Spanish kings or the ritual of the Flamens of Rome The archaic intricacies and taboos of the customs and regulations of marriage might puzzle a mathematician and may when unravelled explain the less complicated prohibitions of a totemism less antique The people themselves in their struggle for existence had developed great ingenuities They had the boomerang and the weet weet but not the bow the throwing stick but not of course the sword the message stick but no hieroglyphs and their art was almost purely decorative in geometrical patterns not representative They deemed themselves akin to all nature and called
