1. QUESTION
The following table shows the number of hours per week that students at a large university spend on various activities. The data are from a survey of 100 students. The data are presented in the following table. The data are presented in the following table. The data are presented in the following table.

Question	Answer
1. What is the purpose of the study?	The purpose of the study is to investigate the effect of the new curriculum on the learning outcomes of the students in the field of biology.
2. What is the research design?	The research design is a quasi-experimental design, which involves comparing the learning outcomes of two groups of students, one using the old curriculum and the other using the new curriculum.
3. What are the independent and dependent variables?	The independent variable is the curriculum (old vs. new). The dependent variable is the learning outcome, measured by the scores on the biology exam.
4. What are the hypotheses?	The null hypothesis is that there is no significant difference in the learning outcomes between the two groups. The alternative hypothesis is that the new curriculum leads to significantly higher learning outcomes than the old curriculum.
5. What are the data collection methods?	The data collection method is a test, where the scores on the biology exam are used to measure the learning outcomes.
6. What are the data analysis methods?	The data analysis method is a statistical test, specifically a t-test, which is used to compare the means of the two groups.
7. What are the results of the study?	The results of the study show that the new curriculum leads to significantly higher learning outcomes than the old curriculum, as indicated by the significant difference in the mean scores on the biology exam.
8. What are the conclusions and recommendations?	The conclusion is that the new curriculum is more effective than the old curriculum in improving the learning outcomes of the students in the field of biology. The recommendation is that the new curriculum should be implemented in all schools.
