Behind Closed Doors At Home In Georgian England:

Behind Closed Doors Amanda Vickery, 2009-11-17 From the award winning author of The Gentleman's Daughter a witty and academic illumination of daily domestic life in Georgian England In this brilliant work Amanda Vickery unlocks the homes of Georgian England to examine the lives of the people who lived there Writing with her customary wit and verve she introduces us to men and women from all walks of life gentlewoman Anne Dormer in her stately Oxfordshire mansion bachelor clerk and future novelist Anthony Trollope in his dreary London lodgings genteel spinsters keeping up appearances in two rooms with yellow wallpaper servants with only a locking box to call their own Vickery makes ingenious use of upholsterer's ledgers burglary trials and other unusual sources to reveal the roles of house and home in economic survival social success and political representation during the long eighteenth century Through the spread of formal visiting the proliferation of affordable ornamental furnishings the commercial celebration of feminine artistry at home and the currency of the language of taste even modest homes turned into arenas of social campaign and exhibition The basis of a 3 part TV series for BBC2 Vickery is that rare thing an historian who writes like a novelist Jane Schilling Daily Mail Comparison between Vickery and Jane Austen is irresistible This book is almost too pleasurable in that Vickery's style and delicious nosiness conceal some seriously weighty scholarship Lisa Hilton The Independent If until now the Georgian home has been like a monochrome engraving Vickery has made it three dimensional and vibrantly colored Behind Closed Doors demonstrates that rigorous academic work can also be nosy gossipy and utterly engaging Andrea Wulf New York Times Book Review

At Home in the Eighteenth Century Stephen G. Hague, Karen Lipsedge, 2021-09-17 The eighteenth century home in terms of its structure design function and furnishing was a site of transformation of spaces identities and practices Home has myriad meanings and although the eighteenth century in the common imagination is often associated with taking tea on polished mahogany tables a far wider world of experience remains to be introduced At Home in the Eighteenth Century brings together factual and fictive texts and spaces to explore aspects of the typical Georgian home that we think we know from Jane Austen novels and extant country houses while also engaging with uncharacteristic and underappreciated aspects of the home At the core of the volume is the claim that exploring eighteenth century domesticity from a range of disciplinary vantage points can yield original and interesting questions as well as reveal new answers Contributions from the fields of literature history archaeology art history heritage studies and material culture brings the home more sharply into focus In this way At Home in the Eighteenth Century reveals a more nuanced and fluid concept of the eighteenth century home and becomes a steppingstone to greater understanding of domestic space for undergraduate level and beyond

The Force of Fashion in Politics and Society Beverly Lemire, 2016-12-05 Throughout history fashion has emerged as one of the most powerful driving forces determining the political economic and social ramifications of the production distribution and circulation of goods Indeed fashion especially in relation to clothing and textiles shapes the relationship between self and society in unique ways In this light the collected papers in this volume position fashion as the lens the critical mediating force through which to analyse and understand cultural economic and political shifts within a broad spectrum of societies in Europe Asia Africa and America from the seventeenth to twenty first centuries Topics include a seventeenth century failing fashion region the material politics of marketing American abolitionist fashions the construction of a fashionable ethos for French perfumes and the use and meanings of clothing and textiles in the politics of Nigerian silk robes and early modern domestic d cor in Europe This volume represents an important shift in scholarship towards a more in depth understanding of the role of fashion in early modern and modern times and will appeal to international readers interested in material culture fashion consumer studies and cultural anthropology among other areas

The East India Company at Home, 1757-1857

Margot Finn, Kate Smith, 2018-02-15 The East India Company at Home 1757 1857 explores how empire in Asia shaped British country houses their interiors and the lives of their residents It includes chapters from researchers based in a wide range of settings such as archives and libraries museums heritage organisations the community of family historians and universities It moves beyond conventional academic narratives and makes an important contribution to ongoing debates around how empire impacted Britain The volume focuses on the propertied families of the East India Company at the height of Company rule From the Battle of Plassey in 1757 to the outbreak of the Indian Uprising in 1857 objects people and wealth flowed to Britain from Asia As men in Company service increasingly shifted their activities from trade to military expansion and political administration a new population of civil servants army officers surveyors and surgeons journeyed to India to make their fortunes These Company men and their families acquired wealth tastes and identities in India which travelled home with them to Britain Their stories the biographies of their Indian possessions and the narratives of the stately homes in Britain that came to house them frame our explorations of imperial culture and its British legacies

Consumption and the Country House Jon Stobart, Mark Rothery, 2016-06-02 This study explores the consumption practices of the landed aristocracy of Georgian England Focussing on three families and drawing on detailed analysis of account books receipted bills household inventories diaries and correspondence Consumption and the Country House charts the spending patterns of this elite group during the so called consumer revolution of the eighteenth century Generally examined through the lens of middling families homes and motivations this book explores the ways in which the aristocracy were engaged in this wider transformation of English society Analysis centres on the goods that the aristocracy purchased both luxurious and mundane the extent to which they pursued fashionable modes and goods the role that family and friends played in shaping notions of taste the influence of gender on taste and refinement the geographical reach of provisioning and the networks that lay behind this consumer activity and the way this all contributed to the construction of the country house The country house thus emerges as much more than a repository of luxury and splendour it lay at the heart of complex networks of exchange sociability demand and supply Exploring these processes and relationships serves to reanimate the country house making it an active site of consumption rather than simply an expression of power and taste and drawing it into the mainstream of consumption histories At the same time the landed aristocracy are shown to be rounded consumers driven by values of thrift and restraint as much as extravagant desires and valuing the old as well as the new not least as markers of their pedigree and heritage

A Royal Experiment Janice Hadlow, 2014-11-18 This groundbreaking royal biography offers a fascinating story filled account of King George III's radical and doomed pursuit of familial happiness The Guardian UK King George III of Great Britain was determined to be different from his Hanoverian predecessors Neither of the previous Georges was faithful to his wife and both hated their own sons Overall their children were angry jealous and disaffected schemers whose palace shenanigans made for royal embarrassment and salacious scandals Pained by his childhood amid this cruel and feuding family George came to the throne aspiring to be a new kind of king a force for moral good And to be that new kind of king he had to be a new kind of man Against his irresistibly awful family background of brutal royal intrigue infidelity and betrayal George fervently pursued a radical domestic dream he would have a faithful marriage and raise loving educated and resilient children In this acclaimed biography Janice Hadlow shares a vivid and revelatory account of King George Queen Charlotte and their fifteen children as they struggled to undo generations of bitter dysfunction and pursue a passion for family A Times and Sunday Times Best Books of the Year

Domestic Space in Britain, 1750-1840 Freya Gowrley, 2022-03-10 Between 1750 and 1840 the home took on unprecedented social and emotional significance Focusing on the design decoration and reception of a range of elite and middling class homes from this period Domestic Space in Britain 1750 1840 demonstrates that the material culture of domestic life was central to how this function of the home was experienced expressed and understood at this time Examining craft production and collection gift exchange and written description inheritance and loss it carefully unpacks the material processes that made the home a focus for contemporaries social and emotional lives The first book on its subject Domestic Space in Britain 1750 1840 employs methodologies from both art history and material culture studies to examine previously unpublished interiors spaces texts images and objects Utilising extensive archival research visual material and textual analysis and histories of emotion sociability and materiality it sheds light on the decoration and reception of a broad array of domestic spaces In so doing it writes a new history of late eighteenth and early nineteenth century domestic space establishing the materiality of the home as a crucial site for identity formation social interaction and emotional expression

Retailing and the Language of Goods, 1550-1820 Nancy Cox, 2016-03-03 In this book the author explores the various meanings assigned to goods sold retail from 1550 to 1820 and how their labels were understood The first half of the book focuses on these labels and on mercantile language more broadly how it was used in trade and how lexicographers and others approached what for them were new vocabularies In the second half the author turns to the goods themselves and their relationships with terms such as luxury choice and love terms that were used as descriptors in marketing goods The language of objects is a subject of ongoing interest and the study of consumables opens up new ways of looking at the everyday language of the early modern period as well as the experiences of trade and consumption for both merchant and consumer

The Story of the Country House Clive Aslet, 2021-09-14 The fascinating story of the evolution of the country house in Britain from its Roman precursors to the present The Story of the Country House is an authoritative and vivid account of the British country house exploring how they have evolved with the changing political and economic landscape Clive Aslet reveals the captivating stories behind individual houses their architects and occupants and paints a vivid picture of the wider context in which the country house in Britain flourished and subsequently fell into decline before enjoying a renaissance in the twenty first century The genesis style and purpose of architectural masterpieces such as Hardwick Hall Hatfield House and Chatsworth are explored alongside the numerous country houses lost to war and economic decline We also meet a cavalcade of characters owners with all their dynastic obsessions and diverse sources of wealth and architects such as Inigo Jones Sir John Vanbrugh Robert Adam Sir John Soane and A W N Pugin who dazzled or in some cases outraged their contemporaries The Story of the Country House takes a fresh look at this enduringly popular building type exploring why it continues to hold such fascination for us today

Domestic Space in Eighteenth-Century British Novels Karen Lipsedge, 2012-09-28 Examining the work of three authors Richardson Haywood and Burney and their representation of domestic space this book argues that to make such spaces accessible to modern readers they need to have information of the real domestic By recreating specifics of these spaces this book innervates the fictional domestic interior for modern readers
