

WHAT IS RHETORIC?

Rhetoric is the art and technique of using language persuasively to influence the beliefs, attitudes, or behaviors of others.

It involves the skillful use of words, arguments, and rhetorical devices such as metaphor, analogy, and irony to achieve effective persuasion.

Rhetoric is employed in political speeches, debates, advertising, and persuasive writing with the purpose of convincing, informing, or moving the audience.

In addition to its utility in communication, rhetoric is also studied as an academic discipline to understand how persuasive messages are constructed.

A Rhetoric For Writing Teachers:

A Rhetoric for Writing Teachers Erika Lindemann, 1987 concise yet comprehensive this practical handbook summarizes important research in the teaching of composition and shows how to apply it in the classroom This new edition has been substantially revised bringing the material as well as the bibliography up to date with current scholarship A Rhetoric for Writing Teachers Erika Lindemann, Daniel Anderson, 2001 From answering the question Why teach writing to offering guidance in managing group work and responding to assignments A Rhetoric for Writing Teachers provides a comprehensive introduction to the teaching of writing Now in a fourth edition this remarkably successful book features a new chapter by Daniel Anderson on teaching with computers and adds updated material on invention intellectual development and responding to students writing Describing in straightforward terms the cross disciplinary scholarship that underlies composition teaching it opens with chapters on prewriting techniques organizing material paragraphing sentence structure words and revising that show teachers how to lead students through composing Sections on writing workshops collaborative learning and instructional technology reflect current views of writing as a social interaction Chapters on rhetoric cognition and linguistics explain theoretical principles that support classroom practices and make teachers performances more effective Treating both the theory and practice of writing this classic book encourages teachers to adopt the methods that best meet their students needs and to develop a style of teaching based on informed decisions It provides an extensive updated bibliography including useful Web sites as well as important books and articles and an updated table of important dates in the history of composition A Rhetoric for Writing Teachers 4 e offers both prospective and seasoned writing teachers convenient access to influential scholarship in the field and inspires them to examine what it means to teach well A Rhetoric for Writing Teachers Erika Lindemann, 1982 A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators 2e Rita Malenczyk, 2016-09-01 A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators 2nd Edition presents the major issues and questions in the field of writing program administration The collection provides aspiring new and seasoned WPAs with the theoretical lenses terminologies historical contexts and research they need to understand the nature history and complexities of their intellectual and administrative work A Rhetoric for Writing Teachers Erika Lindemann, 1982 Rhetorical Traditions and the Teaching of Writing C. H. Knoblauch, Lil Brannon, 1984 The argument of this book is that the earliest tradition of Western rhetoric the classical perspective of Aristotle and Cicero continues to have the greatest impact on writing instruction albeit an unconscious impact This occurs despite the fact that modern rhetoric no longer accepts either the views of mind language and world underlying ancient theory or the concepts about discourse knowledge and communication presented in that theory As a result teachers are depending on ideas as outmoded as they are unreflectively accepted Knoblauch and Brannon maintain that the two traditions are fundamentally incompatible in their assumptions and concepts so that writing teachers must make choices between them if their teaching is to be purposeful and consistent They suggest that the modern tradition offers a richer basis for instruction and they show what teaching from that perspective looks like and how it differs from traditional teaching

A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators Rita Malenczyk, 2013-07-15 Influenced by Erika Lindemann's A Rhetoric for Writing Teachers A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators delineates the major issues and questions in the field of writing program administration and provides readers new to that field with theoretical lenses through which to view those issues and questions In brief and direct though not oversimplified chapters A Rhetoric for Writing Program Administrators explains the historical and theoretical background of such concepts as academic freedom first year composition basic writing writing across the curriculum placement ESL general education and transfer Its thirty nine contributors are seasoned writing program and center administrators who in a range of voices map the discipline of writing program administration and guide readers toward finding their own answers to solving problems at their own institutions

Living Rhetoric and Composition Duane H. Roen, Stuart C. Brown, Theresa Jarnagi Enos, 1998-11 Approximately 20 short personal narratives that trace the history of the composition and rhetoric field describe its current state and relate the journeys of the contributing authors through the discipline
