The Red Brush Wilt L. Idema, Beata Grant, 2020-03-23 One of the most exciting recent developments in the study of Chinese literature has been the rediscovery of an extremely rich and diverse tradition of women's writing of the imperial period 221 B C E 1911 C E Many of these writings are of considerable literary quality Others provide us with moving insights into the lives and feelings of a surprisingly diverse group of women living in Confucian China a society that perhaps more than any other is known for its patriarchal tradition Because of the burgeoning interest in the study of both premodern and modern women in China several scholarly books articles and even anthologies of women's poetry have been published in the last two decades This anthology differs from previous works by offering a glimpse of women's writings not only in poetry but in other genres as well including essays and letters drama religious writing and narrative fiction The authors have presented the selections within their respective biographical and historical contexts This comprehensive approach helps to clarify traditional Chinese ideas on the nature and function of literature as well as on the role of the woman writer

Writing and Materiality in China Judith T. Zeitlin, 2020-10-26 Speaking about Chinese writing entails thinking about how writing speaks through various media In the guises of the written character and its imprints traces or ruins writing is more than textuality The goal of this volume is to consider the relationship of writing to materiality in China's literary history and to ponder the physical aspects of the production and circulation of writing To speak of the thingness of writing is to understand it as a thing in constant motion transported from one place or time to another one genre or medium to another one person or public to another Thinking about writing as the material product of a culture shifts the emphasis from the author as the creator and ultimate arbiter of a text's meaning to the editors publishers collectors and readers through whose hands a text is reshaped disseminated and given new meanings By yoking writing and materiality the contributors to this volume aim to bypass the tendency to oppose form and content words and things documents and artifacts to rethink key issues in the interpretation of Chinese literary and visual culture

Daoist Philosophy and Literati Writings in Late Imperial China Zuyan Zhou, 2013-05-30 This volume first explores the transformation of Chinese Daoism in late imperial period through the writings of prominent intellectuals of the times In such a cultural context it then launches an indepth investigation into the Daoist dimensions of the Chinese narrative masterpiece The Story of the Stone the inscriptions of Quanzhen Daoism in the infrastructure of its religious framework the ideological ramifications of the Daoist concepts of chaos purity and the natural as well as the Daoist images of the gourd fish and bird Zhou presents the central position of Daoist philosophy both in the ideological structure of the Stone and the literati culture that engenders it

Art by the Book J. P. Park, 2016-06-01 Sometime before 1579 Zhou Lujing a professional writer living in a bustling commercial town in southeastern China published a series of lavishly illustrated books which constituted the first multigenre painting manuals in Chinese history Their popularity was immediate and their contents and format were widely reprinted and disseminated in a number of contemporary publications Focusing on Zhou's work Art by the Book describes how such publications accommodated the cultural taste and demands of the general public and shows how painting manuals functioned as a form in which everything from icons of popular culture to graphic or literary cliché was presented to both gratify and shape the sensibilities of a growing reading public As a special commodity of early modern China when cultural standing was measured by a person's command of literati taste and lore painting manuals provided nonelite readers with a device for enhancing social capital

Confessions Zhengguo Kang, 2007 With clear vision this intimate memoir draws us into the intersections of everyday life and Communist power from the first days of Liberation in 1949 through the Tiananmen Square protests and after The son of a professional family Kang Zhengguo is a free spirit drawn to literature In Mao's China these innocuous circumstances expose him at the age of twenty to a fierce struggle session expulsion from university and a four year term of hard labor in Xian s Number Two Brickyard So begins his long stay in the prison camp system a story of hardship and poignance of warmth and humor in the face of cruelty He finally escapes the Chinese gulag by forfeiting his identity at age twenty eight he is adopted by an aging bachelor in a peasant village which enables him to start a new life Rehabilitated after Mao s death Kang finds himself still subject to the recurring nightmare of party authority The Field of Chinese Language Education in the U.S. Vivian Ling,2018-02-13 This book will be the first account of the development of Chinese as a foreign language in the U S as it interacts with the relevant entities in China and beyond There are virtually no systematic retrospective reflections on the field outside of the greater China region and yet over the past decades the field has grown by leaps and bounds and it is critical now that we pause to reflect on what has happened and what we can learn from the past The contributors are among some of the most influential pioneers in the field whose entire academic lives have been dedicated to its development The Field of Chinese Language Education in the U S A Retrospective of the 20th Century is aimed at those who are currently engaged in Chinese language education as teachers or as students
