Integral Transforms in Applied Mathematics John W. Miles, 2008-11-27 An intermediate level text on the use of integral transforms in applied mathematics and engineering Existing works either cover the subject in more elementary form or are advanced treatises In a very lucid style the author deals with the use of this important mathematical tool to solve ordinary and partial differential equations in problems in electrical circuits mechanical vibration and wave motion heat conduction and fluid mechanics The book is divided into five parts covering integral transform pairs the Laplace transform Fourier transforms Hankel transforms and finite Fourier transforms A basic knowledge of complex variables and elementary differential equations is assumed There are many exercises and examples drawn from the above fields tables of the transform pairs needed in the text and a glossary of terms with which the student may be unfamiliar For the student who seeks further background on the subject an annotated bibliography is provided Applied Integral Transforms M. Ya. Antimirov, A. A. Kolyshkin, Rémi Vaillancourt, 2007 This book constructs the kernels of integral transforms by solving the generalized Sturm Liouville problems associated with the partial differential equations at hand In the first part of the book the authors construct the kernels and use them to solve elementary problems of mathematical physics This part requires little mathematical background and provides an introduction to the subject of integral transforms as it proceeds mainly by examples and includes a variety of exercises In the second part of the book the method of integral transforms is used to solve modern applied problems in convective stability temperature fields in oil strata and eddy current testing The choice of topics reflects the authors research experience and involvement in industrial applications The first part of the book is accessible to undergraduates while the second part is aimed at graduate students and researchers Because of the applications the book will interest engineers especially petroleum engineers and physicists Integral Transforms in Applied Mathematics John W. formulation The authors provide a working knowledge of the analytical methods required in pure and applied mathematics physics and engineering The second edition includes many new applications exercises comments and observations with some sections entirely rewritten It contains more than 500 worked examples and exercises with answers as well as hints to selected exercises The most significant changes in the second edition include New chapters on fractional calculus and its applications to ordinary and partial differential equations wavelets and wavelet transformations and Radon transform Revised chapter on Fourier transforms including new sections on Fourier transforms of generalized functions Poissons summation formula Gibbs phenomenon and Heisenbergs uncertainty principle A wide variety of applications has been selected from areas of ordinary and partial differential equations integral equations fluid mechanics and elasticity mathematical statistics fractional ordinary and partial differential equations and special functions A broad spectrum of exercises at the end of each chapter further develops analytical skills in the theory and applications of transform methods and a deeper insight into the subject A systematic mathematical treatment of the theory and method of integral transforms the book provides a clear understanding of the subject and its varied applications in mathematics applied mathematics physical sciences and engineering

Integral Transforms and Their Applications Brian Davies, 2012-12-06 Mathematics is playing an ever more important role in the physical and biological sciences provoking a blurring of boundaries between scientific disciplines and a resurgence of interest in the modern as well as the classical techniques of applied mathematics This renewal of interest both in re search and teaching has led to the establishment of the series Texts in Applied Mathematics TAM The development of new courses is a natural consequence of a high level of excitement on the research frontier as newer techniques such as numeri cal and symbolic computer systems dynamical systems and chaos mix with and reinforce the traditional methods of applied mathematics Thus the purpose of this textbook series is to meet the current and future needs of these advances and to encourage the teaching of new courses TAM will publish textbooks suitable for use in advanced undergraduate and beginning graduate courses and will complement the Applied Mathe matical Sciences AMS series which will focus on advanced textbooks and research level monographs Pasadena California J E Marsden Providence Rhode Island L Sirovich

Integral Transforms and their Applications B. Davies, 2013-11-11 In preparing this second edition I have restricted myself to making small corrections and changes to the first edition Two chapters have had extensive changes made First the material of Sections 14.1 and 14.2 has been rewritten to make explicit reference to the book of Bleistein and Handelsman which appeared after the original Chapter 14 had been written Second Chapter 21 on numerical methods has been rewritten to take account of comparative work which was done by the author and Brian Martin and published as a review paper The material for all of these chapters was in fact prepared for a translation of the book Considerable thought has been given to a much more comprehensive revision and expansion of the book In particular there have been spectacular advances in the solution of some non linear problems using isospectral methods which may be regarded as a generalization of the Fourier transform However the subject is a large one and even a modest introduction would have added substantially to the book Moreover the recent book by Dodd et al is at a similar level to the present volume Similarly I have refrained from expanding the chapter on numerical methods into a complete new part of the book since a specialized monograph on numerical methods is in preparation in collaboration with a colleague
