Beyond Shock and Awe Eric L. Haney, 2006 Media commentator Haney a founding member of Delta Force along with other noted military analysts examines how our military must evolve to face changing times technology and adversaries From limited wars to possible large scale invasions of Syria or Iran or a major military stand down with North Korea this book is a look at America's army of the future Includes articles on the weapons of future wars such legal issues as preemptive attacks and military tribunals military intelligence and how to eliminate problem individuals before they can start a war and the importance of cultural knowledge in winning wars and building alliances From publisher description Globalization, War, and Peace in the Twenty-first Century W. Nester, 2010-11-14 This book explores humanity's most persistent and tragic problem by answering some crucial questions including How is military power created and asserted What are weapons of mass destruction and what is the likelihood of them being used What are the source methods and results of terrorism and counterterrorism Military Review, 2007 Review of Current Military Literature, 2007 Professional Journal of the United States Army, 2007 Air Force Magazine, 2006 American Military Intervention in Unconventional War W. Bert, 2016-04-30 A study of the major U S military interventions in unconventional war this book looks at four wars that occurred while the U S was a superpower in the post war WW II period and one in the Philippines in 1898 Kevlar Legions: The Transformation of the United States Army 1989-2005 John Sloan Brown, 2012-08-12 This is the story of how the United States Army responded to the challenges of the end of the Cold War by transforming itself into the most capable ground force in the world today It argues that from 1989 through 2005 the U S Army attempted and largely achieved a centrally directed and institutionally driven transformation relevant to ground warfare that exploited Information Age technology adapted to post Cold War strategic circumstances and integrated into parallel Department of Defense efforts The process not only modernized equipment it also substantially altered doctrine organization training administrative and logistical practices and the service culture Kevlar Legions further contends that the digitized expeditionary Army has withstood the test of combat performing superbly with respect to deployment and high end conventional combat and capably with respect to low intensity conflict and the counterinsurgency challenges of Iraq and Afghanistan

The Changing Character of War Hew Strachan, Sibylle Scheipers, 2011-05-13 Over the last decade and indeed ever since the Cold War the rise of insurgents and non state actors in war and their readiness to use terror and other irregular methods of fighting have led commentators to speak of new wars They have assumed that the old wars were waged solely between states and were accordingly fought between comparable and symmetrical armed forces Much of this commentary has lacked context or sophistication It has been bounded by norms and theories more than the messiness of reality Fed by the impact of the 9 11 attacks it has privileged some wars and certain trends over others Most obviously it has been historically unaware But it has also failed to consider many of the other dimensions which help us to define what war is legal ethical religious and social The Changing Character of War the fruit of a five year interdisciplinary programme at Oxford of the same name draws together all these themes in order to distinguish between what is really changing about war and what only seems to be changing Self evidently as the product of its own times the character of each war is always changing But if war s character is in flux its underlying nature contains its own internal consistency Each war is an adversarial business capable of generating its own dynamic and therefore of spiralling in directions that are never totally predictable War is both utilitarian the tool of policy and dysfunctional This book brings together scholars with world wide reputations drawn from a clutch of different disciplines but united by a common intellectual goal that of understanding a problem of extraordinary importance for our times This book is a project of the Oxford Leverhulme Programme on the Changing Character of War
