Women, Mobility and Incarceration Rimple Mehta, 2018-09-03 This book explores how Bangladeshi women from poor and undereducated semi educated backgrounds who have crossed the Indo Bangladesh border find themselves in prisons serving sentences under the Foreigners Act 1946 Drawing on original fieldwork this book explores these women's understanding of borders and state sovereignty and how the women from conservative rural and semi rural backgrounds which impose a strict moral code adjust to the socio cultural context of an Indian prison where being an inmate is dishonourable in their community This book examines the implicit challenge in these women's action and decisions to these codes of honour to accepted social norms of their religion and community and ultimately the dominantly patriarchal system that marks South Asian society Further it focuses on the negotiations that the Bangladeshi women make with the social and political borders they encounter in the process of crossing the Indo Bangladesh border without requisite documents needed by the state for entry into a foreign land how they cope with the daily challenges of living during their imprisonment in a correctional home and their feelings about their impending return to Bangladesh Women who are apprehended and criminalised for crossing borders must negotiate with not only the normative understanding of borders which is inherently masculine in nature but also the gender biased lens through which female mobility is viewed therefore they not only cross political borders but also social borders This book maps the associations between women's experiences of mobility and incarceration and their linkages with social and political borders and the fraught experiences of being in a foreign territorial space It will be important reading for criminologists sociologists and those engaged in penology women's studies and migration studies
